This bill:

- Prohibits employee organizations from deducting dues, uniform assessments, fines, penalties, or special assessments from public employee wages.
- Prohibits a labor organization from deducting moneys from employees that go toward political contributions or expenditures without written authorization from the employee.
- Requires a pro rata refund for moneys paid by a public or private employee to a union for political contributions and expenditures when an employee revokes their authorization.

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 110.114, 112.171, 447.303, and 447.507.

The bill creates section 447.18, Florida Statutes.

II. Present Situation:

State and Federal Constitutional Issues

Florida is a “right to work” state. Article I, section 6 of the Florida Constitution reads:

The right of persons to work shall not be denied or abridged on account of membership or non-membership in any labor union or labor organization. The right of employees, by and through a labor organization, to bargain collectively shall not be denied or abridged. Public employees shall not have the right to strike.

Employees have a fundamental right to organize for the purposes of collective bargaining, but have no federal constitutional right to mandatory collective bargaining.¹ Under the Florida Constitution, however, courts have held that the right to collectively bargain is a fundamental right which may be abridged only for a compelling state interest, and therefore a statute under review must serve that compelling state interest in the least intrusive means possible.²

Certain restrictions may be placed on a union’s ability to collect dues or fees. In Florida, nonunion employees cannot be forced to pay union fees and dues as a condition of employment.³ In states where employees can be required to pay dues, the exaction of fees beyond those necessary to finance collective bargaining activities has been found to violate the unions’ judicially created duty of fair representation and nonunion members’ First Amendment rights.⁴ The U.S. Supreme Court has held that a local government’s restrictions on union wage deductions would be upheld against an equal protection challenge if it was reasonably related to a legitimate government purpose.⁵ In a more recent case, the U.S. Supreme Court has upheld a state statute banning public-employee payroll deductions for political activities against a First Amendment challenge.⁶ The Court held that the state was under no obligation to aid unions in their political activities, and the state’s decision not to do so was not abridgement of unions’ free speech rights, since unions remained free to engage in such speech as they saw fit, but without enlisting the state’s support.⁷

Federal Labor Law

The Federal National Labor Relations Act (NLRA) of 1935⁸ and the Federal Labor Management Relations Act of 1947⁹ constitute a comprehensive set of regulations guaranteeing to employees the right to organize, to bargain collectively through chosen representatives, and to engage in concerted activities to secure their rights in industries involved in or affected by interstate commerce. When conduct falls within the scope of the NLRA, the preemption doctrine applies and the state statutes are usually inoperative, unless the National Labor Relations Board has declined jurisdiction or has ceded jurisdiction to a state labor-relations board, or unless the conduct involves an area that the states are permitted to regulate despite the existence of the NLRA.¹⁰ However, when the subject matter of a labor relations dispute or regulatory issue touches overriding state or local interests, and in the absence of compelling congressional direction, state laws are not preempted by the NLRA.¹¹ Other federal labor-relations statutes that can preempt state action include the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act¹² and the Railway Labor Act.

Florida Statutes

Under the Florida Statutes, employees have the right to form, join, or assist labor unions or labor organizations or to refrain from such activity.¹³ The rights given by these provisions belong to the individual employee and not to the union.¹⁴ The regulation of labor unions is the responsibility of the Department of Business and Professional Regulation.¹⁵

Part II of ch. 447, F.S., governs labor organizations for public employees, and the Public Employees Relations Commission regulates collective bargaining in Florida. Part II of chapter 447, F.S., has two basic purposes:

- To encourage cooperation between government and its employees.
- To protect the public from the interruption of government services resulting from strikes by government employees.

Under current law, any employee organization which has been certified as a bargaining agent¹⁶ has the right to have its dues and uniform assessments deducted and collected by the employer from the salaries of those employees who authorize the deduction of said dues and uniform assessments.¹⁷ However, such authorization is revocable at the employee's request upon 30 days' written notice to the employer and employee organization. The deductions shall commence upon the bargaining agent's written request to the employer. Reasonable costs to the employer of said deductions shall be a proper subject of collective bargaining. Such right to deduction, unless revoked by a court due to a violation on the prohibition on strikes, shall be in force for so long as the employee organization remains the certified bargaining agent for the employees in the unit. The public employer is expressly prohibited from any involvement in the collection of fines, penalties, or special assessments.¹⁸

“Employee organization” or “organization” means any labor organization, union, association, fraternal order, occupational or professional society, or group, however organized or constituted, which represents, or seeks to represent, any public employee or group of public employees concerning any matters relating to their employment relationship with a public employer.¹⁹ An employee organization is a type of labor organization.²⁰

Counties, municipalities, and special districts as well as state departments, agencies, bureaus, commissions, and officers are authorized and permitted in their sole discretion to make deductions from the salary or wage of any employee or employees in such amount as is authorized and requested by such employee or employees and for such purpose as is authorized and requested by such persons and pay such sums so deducted as directed by such persons.²¹

Political Contributions

For purposes of campaign financing, a “contribution” is defined as:

- A gift, subscription, conveyance, deposit, loan, payment, or distribution of money or anything of value, including contributions in kind having an attributable monetary value in any form, made for the purpose of influencing the results of an election or making an electioneering communication.
- A transfer of funds between political committees, between committees of continuous existence, between electioneering communications organizations, or between any combinations of these groups.
- The payment, by any person other than a candidate or political committee, of compensation for the personal services of another person which are rendered to a candidate or political committee without charge to the candidate or committee for such services.
- The transfer of funds by a campaign treasurer or deputy campaign treasurer between a primary depository and a separate interest-bearing account or certificate of deposit, and the term includes any interest earned on such account or certificate.²²

An “expenditure” means a purchase, payment, distribution, loan, advance, transfer of funds by a campaign treasurer or deputy campaign treasurer between a primary depository and a separate interest-bearing account or certificate of deposit, or gift of money or anything of value made for

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Section 1 amends s. 110.114, F.S., to prohibit state employee wage deductions for the dues, uniform assessments, penalties, or special assessments of an employee organization. It further prohibits deductions for purposes of political activity, including contributions to a candidate, political party, political committee, committee of continuous existence,²⁴ electioneering communications organization, or organization exempt from taxation under 501(c)(4)²⁵ or s. 527²⁶ of the Internal Revenue Code. The bill deletes the explicit authorization allowing “employee organizations” that are the exclusive bargaining agent for a unit of state employees to deduct membership dues.

Section 2 amends s. 112.171, F.S., to provide the same prohibitions in section 1 for county, municipal, and special district employees.

Section 3 creates s. 447.18, F.S., to prohibit labor organizations from using dues, assessments, fines, or penalties paid by an employee to make political contributions or expenditures, as defined in s. 106.011, F.S., unless the labor organization has the express written authorization of the employee. The written authorization for political expenditures must be executed by the employee separately for each fiscal year and must be accompanied with a detailed account, provided by the labor organization, of all political contributions and expenditures made by the labor organization in the preceding 24 months. The bill requires the labor organizations to estimate their expected political contributions and expenditures for the fiscal year and reduce the amount collected during the fiscal year from each employee that has not executed a written authorization. If the actual contributions and expenditures of the labor organization exceed its estimated contributions and expenditures, the labor organization is required to provide a refund at the end of the fiscal year to each employee that has not executed a written authorization.

The employee may revoke the authorization at any time. If an employee revokes the authorization, the pro rata refund of the employee for such fiscal year shall be in the same proportion as the proportion of the fiscal year for which the authorization was not in effect. A labor organization may not require an employee to provide the authorization for political contributions and expenditures as a condition of membership in the labor organization.

Section 4 amends s. 447.303, F.S., to prohibit public employers from deducting or collecting money from their employees for an employee organization.

The bill deletes language that:

²³ Section 106.011, F.S.

²⁴ Section 106.011, F.S. defines “committee of continuous existence” to mean any group, organization, association, or other such entity which is certified pursuant to the provisions of s. 106.04, F.S.

²⁵ 26 U.S.C. § 501(c)(4) (Relating to Civic Leagues, Social Welfare Organizations, and Local Associations of Employees).

²⁶ 26 U.S.C. § 527 (Relating to tax exempt political organizations).

- Authorizes a bargaining agent to have its dues and uniform assessments deducted and collected by the employer from the salaries of those employees who authorize the deduction of said dues and uniform assessments.
- Allows the employee to revoke authorization for employer deduction with 30 days written notice.
- Specifies that reasonable costs to the employer of deductions are a proper subject of collective bargaining.
- Specifies procedures regarding the deduction and revocation process.
- Prohibits the public employer from any involvement in the collection of fines, penalties, or special assessments.

Section 5 amends s. 447.507, F.S., deleting references to deductions or check-offs by employee organizations with respect to penalties for violation of the strike prohibition.

Section 6 states that, if any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the invalidity does not affect other provisions or applications of this act which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of the act are severable.

Section 7 provides an effective date of July 1, 2011, and states that the bill shall apply to collective bargaining agreements entered into after the effective date.
