COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/CS/SB 898 excludes certain data processing services delivered by electronic transmission from the communications services tax by including such services in the definition of “information services.” Information services are not included within the definition of “communication services,” and are not subject to communications services tax.

The bill states that it is a clarification of existing law, and a tax may not be assessed or collected with respect to any charge or portion thereof on such data processing services for periods before or after the effective date of the bill.

The bill has no revenue impact because the change is a clarification that aligns the statutes with current administrative practice.

II. Present Situation:

Chapter 202, F.S., imposes a communications services tax on “retail sales of communications services which originate and terminate in Florida, or originate or terminate in Florida and are billed to a Florida address.”¹ Communication services include telecommunications, cable, direct-to-home satellite, and related services.² The communication services tax includes a state tax rate of 6.65 percent and a gross receipts tax rate of 2.52 percent for a combined rate of 9.17 percent.³ In addition, local governments impose a local tax rate of up to 7.12 percent.⁴

The communications services tax is applied to the retail sales price of each taxable communications service.⁵ The definition of “communications services” specifically excludes “information services” and therefore they are not subject to the communication services tax.⁶ “Information services” are defined as “the offering of a capability for generating, acquiring, storing, transforming, processing, retrieving, using, or making available information via communications services.”⁷ Information services include electronic publishing, web-hosting services, and end-user 900 number services.

The state taxes collected are deposited into the General Revenue Fund and a portion is distributed to local governments.⁸ Gross receipts tax collections are deposited into the Public Education Capital Outlay and Debt Service Trust Fund and are used to fund public schools’, community colleges’, and universities’ capital projects. The Department of Revenue provides tax collection services for local governments, and local communication services taxes are distributed to local governments.

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill specifically excludes certain data processing services delivered by electronic transmission from the communications services tax by including such services in the definition of “information services.”

Section 1 amends s. 202.11(5), F.S., to include in the definition of “information services” data processing and other services that allow data to be generated, acquired, stored, processed, or retrieved and delivered by an electronic transmission to a purchaser where the purchaser’s primary purpose for the underlying transaction is the data or information.

Section 2 states that the bill is a clarification of existing law, and a tax may not be assessed or collected with respect to any charge or portion thereof on such data processing services for periods before or after the effective date of the bill.

Section 3 provides an effective date of upon becoming law.

² Chapter 202, F.S.

³ See ss. 202.12(1)(a) and 203.01(1)(b), F.S. The gross receipts tax is 2.37 percent, plus an additional 0.15 percent for certain services. Local, long distance, and toll telephone services sold to a residential household are exempt from the 6.65 percent state tax and 0.15 percent gross receipts tax.

IX. Additional Information:

- A. Committee Substitute – Statement of Substantial Changes:
(Summarizing differences between the Committee Substitute and the prior version of the bill.)

CS/CS by Commerce and Tourism on March 24, 2014:

The committee substitute amends the definition of “information services” to include certain data processing services. This change excludes such services from the communications services tax, because information services are not communication services subject to the tax.

The bill previously had excluded from the definition of “sales price” for the communications services tax the sale of communications services between a franchisor and its franchisee, which excluded such services from the communications services tax.

CS by Communications, Energy, and Public Utilities on March 4, 2014:

The committee substitute completely rewrites the proposed exemption from the term “sales tax” for purposes of the Communications Services Tax. It exempts the sale of communications services between a franchisor and its franchisee, defining the term “franchisee” to mean any entity, including a related company, using the franchisor’s service mark, whether by license, management agreement, or by a subsidiary or affiliate of the franchisor.

The bill also states that it is a clarification of existing law, and a tax may not be assessed or collected with respect to any charge or portion thereof described in s. 202.11(13)(b), F.S., as amended by this act, for periods before or after the effective date of this act.

- B. Amendments:
