I. Summary:

SB 96 adds information on the dangers and signs human trafficking to the instructional requirements for middle and high school students in the state's public school system.

The bill has an effective date of July 1, 2018 and would have a minimal fiscal impact.

II. Present Situation:

Human Trafficking

Children can be victims of human trafficking in two forms; commercial sexual exploitation and labor exploitation. In Florida, human trafficking is reported to the Child Abuse Hotline. Toll free national numbers to report human trafficking of children in Florida are relayed to the abuse hotline. Sex trafficking is defined as a commercial sex act induced by force, fraud or coercion or in which the person induced to perform such act is under 18.¹ Commercial sex acts include, but are not limited to prostitution and/or pornography as a means for the perpetrator to make money. The mere fact the victim is a child and the act meets the definition of a commercial sex act, makes the child a victim. Calls to the abuse hotline are investigated by the Department of Children and Families (department) or in certain counties, by the sheriff office.

In 2012 and 2014, the Legislature passed major legislation regarding the treatment of children who are victims of sex trafficking.² The new policy treated these children as victims rather than prosecuting them for prostitution.

² Chapters 2012-105 and 2014-161, Laws of Florida

Once a call is made to the hotline, the department or certain sheriff office in counties where the sheriff conducts child abuse investigations, an investigation is made. If commercial sexual trafficking is suspected or verified, the department or sheriff office, conducts a multidisciplinary staffing on each case.³ The staffing includes local experts in child protection, child welfare, medical professionals and law enforcement to assess the needs of the child and determine if the victim needs placement in a residential home, or “safe house” pursuant to s. 39.524, F.S. Multidisciplinary staffing teams are also charged with assessing the local services available to victims of commercial sexual exploitation.⁴

Chapter 2014-161, Laws of Florida requires the Legislature’s Office of Program Policy Analysis and Government Accountability (OPPAGA) to conduct an annual study on commercial sexual exploitation of children. The most recent report found that in calendar year 2015, there were 1,279 reports of human trafficking to the Child Abuse Hotline in Florida.⁵ Of those, 264 were verified. Of the verified cases, 123 were dependent children in state’s foster care while 141 were not dependent. OPPAGA reported that there is no data on the status or outcomes for the 141 victims not in foster care.

In 2017, the Legislature passed, and the Governor signed, SB 852 (Chapter 2017-23) to clarify the definition of commercial sexual exploitation and to expand the duties of the Department of Children and Families for child victims of human trafficking that are not in the state’s dependency system. The department, or in certain counties, the Sheriff’s Office, must conduct a multi-disciplinary meeting on each case and provide the family of the victims with a service plan to assist the victim recover from the trauma of human trafficking. For those victims that are dependent children, the dependency case plan must be updated to require services to meet the needs of the dependent child. In addition, the bill requires that persons accused of human trafficking be detained before trial.
