Hearing Report

Date: September 1, 2011

City: Clewiston

Location: Hendry County Health Department

Time: 8:00am-11:00am

Number of Speakers: 20

Total Attendance: 45

The public hearing in Clewiston took place at the Hendry County Health Department (1100 South Olympia Ave., Clewiston, FL 33440). Prior to the meeting, a map with directions to the hearing and parking instructions was posted on the internet. Legislative staff posted signs outside the building and the room to provide directions to the hearing, and was on hand to answer questions and display district building software outside the meeting room.

The hearing was advertised in The St. Petersburg Times, Tampa Tribune, Sarasota Herald-Tribune, Bradenton Herald, Naples Daily News, and Ft. Myers News-Press on Sunday, August 28. On Thursday, September 1, an advertisement was published in the Clewiston News. Each chamber's website published the public notice, and social media websites invited the public to the hearing as well. Senate staff sent invitations to more than 45 school board officials, over 70 county commissioners, administrators, and personnel under local supervisors of elections. Over 270 city-level elected officials in Southwest Florida and more than 220 public interest group leaders received invitations encouraging leaders and the groups they represent to attend the hearing.

The hearing was streamed live on The Florida Channel's website, recorded, and subsequently re-aired. There were 5 senators and 17 representatives present at the hearing chaired by Senator Gaetz. Of the 45 people who filled out attendance cards 20 indicated they wanted to speak at the hearing.

After hearing testimony and gathering input from the public, legislators at the meeting were given an opportunity to comment.

Submission from Stephen Garrett

Stephen Garrett
Clewiston

Ladies and gentlemen of our Legislature:

I've lived in Florida only about 3 years. In that time my Congressional district has been represented by three different persons of two different parties - but I don't consider this a bad thing.

I attended two earlier hearings in this series without commenting. I heard many concerns raised: that redistricting respect and honor our Federal civil rights laws, and that it respect and honor the voters' wishes for compact districts; I'd like to echo those concerns. I also heard concerns that these goals were in conflict. I urge you to recognize that this is a false dichotomy. Meeting both goals may be more challenging than treating them as either-or, but meeting both goals is assuredly possible.

But beyond that, I challenge you to honor the diversity within the districts you draw - not of age, or race, or any demographic, but diversity of ideas. Our nation is in desperate need of intelligent, considerate civic debate; and the surest way to squelch it is to craft districts in which the outcome of a general election is a foregone conclusion.

Uncompetitive districts debase the value of each incremental vote, rendering it virtually meaningless. Competitive districts raise up the value of incremental votes, and encourage citizen participation.

Uncompetitive districts teach our children that those in power can act to protect their own interests at the expense of the people's. Competitive districts place the people's interests first, and encourage our children and all citizens to reflect on what truly constitutes their interest.

Uncompetitive districts breed distrust, cynicism, and apathy. Competitive districts enliven debate, engage voters, and bring accountability to the fore.

Many may say that these are fine ideals, but that you will choose to create districts to protect your own security in office. My friends, such thinking reflects another false dichotomy. I suggest that security in office is completely compatible with competitive districts.

I submit to you that true job security for a public servant rests in consistent delivery of exemplary public service, and that this makes it possible for her or him to consistently win vibrant, competitive, well-contested elections.

Ladies and gentlemen, your unwillingness to craft competitive electoral districts would be the clearest possible evidence of your own suspicion that you are unworthy of office - that you would not win a tough, well-contested election in a competitive district. I fear that you may instead choose to craft districts that - if you'll forgive me - any jackass or, respectively, pachyderm could win.

Show your belief in your own worthiness, and show your belief in your constituents whose government this is. Craft districts that are respectful, honorable, legal, compact - and competitive.

Thank you.

Thank you!

My intended comments echo some of the comments already made at the Clewiston hearing.

"1) Geographic integrity should be a major consideration in establishing district boundaries. A state senate district as large as District 39 that it takes some eight hours to drive from one end of the district to the other is unconscionable;

2) Utilizing Lake Okeechobee bottom lands having no human population whatsoever to connect a gerrymandered district such as the current Senate District 27 makes Florida a laughingstock and is reminiscent of "hanging chads" in the minds of many;

3) While a degree of geographic and socio-economic diversity should be a goal in establishing district boundaries, there should be enough commonality to avoid a situation where a district can be totally controlled by a small area with a dense population base and totally different needs and concerns to the detriment of the rest of the district; and, finally,

4) The Florida Legislature in its final redistricting of both Congressional and State Legislative Districts should show a concern for the welfare and rights of the People of Florida not just the current political agenda of the majority party in the Florida House and Senate in creating districts."

Thank you,

Joseph H. Thomas

Mr. Thomas,

I am sorry we missed your testimony at the Clewiston hearing. We checked our records and determined your speaker card was inadvertently skipped. As soon as we discovered the mistake the chair called your name and sent us out to catch you. Unfortunately, we were moments late. Please email to me your comments about redistricting and they will be included in the record for the Clewiston hearing.

Sincerely,

Jay Ferrin

RESOLUTION NO. 11-09

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY OF OKEECHOBEE, FLORIDA; SUPPORTING A REDISTRICTING PLAN WHICH RETAINS INCLUSION IN TWO STATE HOUSE DISTRICTS AND TWO STATE SENATE DISTRICTS WITHIN OKEECHOBEE COUNTY; PROVIDING FOR AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, Okeechobee County, Florida is currently included in two State House Districts and two State Senate Districts, as depicted on the maps attached hereto as Exhibit "A" and incorporated herein by reference; and

WHEREAS, the Okeechobee area is predominantly rural, with agricultural concerns; and

WHEREAS, the current State House District Plan and the current State Senate District Plan have resulted in representation of the City of Okeechobee by multiple persons with a strong understanding of rural needs; and

WHEREAS, having only one State House Representative or one State Senator for the City of Okeechobee would weaken the political influence of rural areas and shift more power to regions with differing demographics and needs; and

WHEREAS, without strong voices from representatives familiar with rural concerns, it is likely that rural concerns could be overrun by large market needs and political powers; and

WHEREAS, the City of Okeechobee has uniquely benefitted from Okeechobee County being included in two State House Districts and two State Senate Districts.

NOW THEREFORE, be it resolved before the City Council for the City of Okeechobee, Florida; presented at a duly advertised public meeting; and passed by majority vote of the City Council and properly executed by the Mayor or designee, as Chief Presiding Officer for the City:

1. That the City of Okeechobee, Florida supports a redistricting plan which retains inclusion in two State House Districts and two State Senate Districts within Okeechobee County, to best serve the interests of the City.
2. That this Resolution shall become effective upon adoption.

INTRODUCED AND ADOPTED by the City of Okeechobee this 16th day of August, 2011.

REDISTRICTING · 2012

ABOUT REDISTRICTING

After each decennial Census, the Legislature redraws the districts from which voters elect their public officials. In general, districts are redrawn to accommodate population changes and ensure that district populations are as nearly equal in number as practicable.

There will be opportunities for citizen participation during public hearings, interim committee meetings, and the 2012 Session.

REDISTRICTING LAW

The United States Constitution, the federal Voting Rights Act of 1965, and the Florida Constitution each regulate redistricting. Under the United States Constitution, district populations must be as nearly equal as practicable. In addition, race may not be the predominant factor in drawing lines, unless the use of race is narrowly tailored to achieve a compelling interest.

The Voting Rights Act requires the creation of a district that performs for racial minorities where (1) a minority population is geographically compact and sufficiently numerous to be a majority in a single district; (2) the minority population is politically cohesive; (3) the majority votes sufficiently as a bloc to enable it usually to defeat the minority-preferred candidate; and (4) under all of the circumstances, the minority population has less opportunity than others to participate in the political process and elect representatives of its choice.

The Voting Rights Act applies additional requirements to districts that include any part of Collier, Hardee, Hendry, Hillsborough, or Monroe County. In these districts, the Voting Rights Act prohibits purposeful discrimination and protects against retrogression—or backsliding—in the ability of racial minorities to elect representatives of their choice. To ensure compliance with these requirements, the redistricting plan must be submitted to and precleared by a federal court or the United States Department of Justice before it may be enforced.

The Florida Constitution requires that districts be contiguous. A district is contiguous if all of its territory is in actual contact, uninterrupted by the territory of another district. Contact at a corner or right angle is insufficient, but territory may cross bodies of water. The Constitution allows state legislative districts to overlap, either partially or entirely.

THE NUMBERS

In 2012, the Legislature will redraw the state's congressional districts as well as districts for Florida House and Florida Senate seats. The number of congressional districts in Florida will increase from 25 to 27. The number of Florida House seats must be between 80 and 120, while the number of Florida Senate seats must be between 30 and 40. Currently, the Florida House and Florida Senate contain 120 members and 40 members, respectively. If these numbers are maintained, the average population of a Florida House district will be 156,678, while the average population of a Florida Senate district will be 470,033. Each congressional district will contain approximately 696,345 people.

PUBLIC COMMENTS

The Legislature will draw lines in accordance with the standards in federal and state law and traditional redistricting principles not inconsistent with those standards. To this end, the Legislature encourages public testimony directed to the following points:

- The full implementation of the protections afforded by the Amendments to racial and language minorities, including continuance of the Legislature's long-established policy to preserve or enhance the number of performing minority districts.
- The various measures of compactness, from geometric calculations to a broad consideration of how communities relate to one another, for example through commerce, transportation, and communication—in order to promote the creation of effective representational units.

REDISTRICTING 2012

- The feasibility of using political and geographical boundaries in the formation of districts, in light of other standards such as the equality of district populations, the protection of racial and language minorities, and compactness.
- To the extent not inconsistent with the Amendments, the desire to preserve the cores of existing districts or the proper placement of communities of interest in districts, as determined by local circumstances and voter preferences.

This approach, together with public testimony, research, and facts developed throughout the redistricting process, will result in the adoption of redistricting plans that have the intent and result of full compliance with all legal mandates, including Amendments 5 and 6, and of effective and meaningful representation for all voters in the State of Florida.

Citizens from all parts of the state can visit the House website (www.floridaredistricting.org) and the Senate website (www.flsenate.gov/Redistricting), to learn about creating and submitting their own House, Senate, and congressional maps, and to participate actively in the most open, transparent, and interactive redistricting ever.

LEGAL REVIEWS

After enactment, state senatorial and representative districts are reviewed by the Florida Supreme Court.

Congressional districts are set by an act of the Legislature subject to the Governor's approval. All redistricting plans must be submitted to and precleared by a federal court or the United States Department of Justice.

Draw and Submit Your Own Districts

District Builder is a full-featured web application with 2010 Census data for drawing Florida Senate, Florida House, and Congressional districts and submitting them to the Legislature. Submitting your plan is one of the best ways to show what works for your community. Citizens have full and easy access to the same web application and information that Senators and professional staff use.

To start using District Builder you need:

- A personal account. Choose “District Builder” at www.flsenate.gov/Redistricting to register.
- Display resolution of 1024 x 768 or higher.
- A broadband Internet computer and mouse. Firefox (3.6 and 4.0) and Internet Explorer (7 and 8) are supported (Internet Explorer 9 and Opera are not). Your browser must be set to allow JavaScript and pop-ups from “flsenate.gov.”

For full details, see <https://db10.flsenate.gov/db1/help>.

When you decide to submit your plan for public consideration, it will be published at <http://www.flsenate.gov/Session/Redistricting/Plans> with a standard set of interactive map links, reports, downloads, and maps. Otherwise, your personal plans are stored on secure servers and exempt from inspection and copying. See § 11.0431(2)(e), Fla. Stat.

The Florida House of Representatives is building its own web application. To learn about “MyDistrictBuilder,” see www.floridaredistricting.org. The fact that the Senate and House systems are different is a plus. Each has unique features, and citizens can choose which better meets their needs.

Full-featured redistricting systems typically cost thousands of dollars per user. The overarching goal shared by the Florida Senate and Florida House is giving everyone free and easy access to all the same tools and data the Legislature is using.

With innovative technologies and joint public hearings, the Florida Legislature is promoting the most open, accessible, and interactive redistricting ever.
