My Senator is ____________________
Have you ever wondered who decides how long a school day can be, when a student can drive without an adult in the car, or how many math credits a student needs before graduation? The responsibility to answer all these questions rests with the Legislature of the State of Florida.

The Florida Legislature, which is divided into two houses, the Senate and the House of Representatives, makes laws that govern our state. Members of the legislature, senators and representatives, are chosen by the citizens of Florida to represent them and the area where they live. These areas are called districts. Senators and representatives are responsible for making sure the people who elected them have a voice in all matters concerning the state.

Senators are elected to serve four-year terms. Representatives are elected to serve two-year terms. Currently, 40 senators and 120 members of the House of Representatives serve the people of Florida. Members of the Senate and House must be at least 21 years old, a resident of the district where they have been elected, and must have lived in Florida for two years before running for election.

Each year, the Senate and House meet in legislative session to resolve issues important to the people of our state. Issues like driving regulations, recycling, and education are debated. In odd-numbered years, the session begins on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in March and lasts for 60 days. In even-numbered years, the session begins on the second Tuesday after the first Monday in January and lasts for 60 days. The session typically ends in sine die adjournment with the ceremonial dropping of white handkerchiefs by each chamber's Sergeant at Arms.
During session, legislators work on making new laws or changing existing laws. Each member also serves on several committees where the effects of laws on the people in our state are studied. Any member of either chamber can make suggestions for new laws. These suggestions, called bills, are studied in committees. The committee can change the bill, accept the bill, or reject the bill. If the bill is changed or accepted by the committee, it can then be considered by the full Senate or the full House of Representatives, which in turn votes to accept the bill as it is, change the bill, or reject the bill. Passage of a bill occurs when the bill is accepted, in most instances, by a majority of the members of one chamber.

The passed bill goes to the other chamber of the Florida Legislature for review which means a bill passed in the Senate goes to the House of Representatives for review. The bill goes through the same process in the second chamber as it did in the first chamber. The only bill the legislature is required to pass every year is the state's budget.

When a bill is passed by both chambers, it is sent to the Governor for action. The Governor may sign the bill, allow it to become a law without signature, or veto it. All the bills that are not vetoed become laws that are compiled to form the Florida Statutes.

The Senate has various software applications designed specifically for Senate legislative processes. The core application provides for a variety of functions, including drafting legislation and amendments, bill filing, messaging the House of Representatives, and enrolling bills for the Governor's signature. Overall, these applications ensure that every task involved with legislation, from taking an idea and turning it into a bill to enrolling the bill once it passes both chambers, can be processed electronically and quickly made available to the public.

The Senate Page Program offers participants ages 15-18 the opportunity to learn about the legislative process in Florida through a hands-on approach to civic learning. Pages will role play as Senators, developing ideas for new laws, drafting legislation, and filing bills. The week culminates with a mock session in which bills are debated and voted on by Senate Pages. Additionally, Senate Pages will assist members of the Florida Senate by distributing legislative materials and correspondence in the Senate Chamber while observing the Senators as they discuss and debate legislation. Pages may also lead the Pledge of Allegiance during session, enjoy guest speakers, and participate in educational tours and activities.

This guide to the legislative process was created to help students become familiar with the Florida Legislature. Your participation in the legislative process is essential to the preservation of democracy. You can make a difference!
GETTING INVOLVED

Even though you cannot vote until you are 18 years old, you play an important role in the shaping of Florida laws. You have a responsibility to learn all you can about the legislative process so you can become an informed voter. You can become knowledgeable about the issues affecting the lives of the people of our state and how those issues affect us even on the national level.

You can start by involving yourself in statewide mock government programs such as 4-H, Boys State, Girls State, YMCA Youth in Government, and other such organizations.

Involvement in student government programs at your school is also a good way to learn how the legislative process works.

CONTACTING YOUR LEGISLATORS

Legislators enjoy hearing from their younger constituents. You can determine who your legislators are by visiting the Senate’s website at www.flsenate.gov. You may also email your legislators using the email address provided on each legislator’s web page.

If you wish to meet with your senator or representative during the legislative session, you should call ahead to make an appointment. Groups wishing to make special arrangements to visit on a day when the legislature is in session should contact their legislators as far in advance of their proposed visit as possible. Your legislator can assist you in making sure your visit to the Florida Legislature is properly scheduled.

We also encourage you to visit other parts of the State Capitol in Tallahassee. The Welcome Center provides educational and fun tours for your family or class year round. You will get to see such sights as the Great Seal of the State of Florida in the Capitol Rotunda and a panoramic view of Tallahassee and its surrounding area from the 22nd floor. You may schedule a tour of the Capitol by calling (850) 488-6167.
YOUR STATE CAPITOL

The first Capitol was a log cabin built in 1824 with the establishment of Tallahassee as the territorial capital. In the early 1820s, legislators transferred government business from St. Augustine to Pensacola for alternating sessions. Travel was hazardous and took almost 20 days. As a result, Tallahassee was chosen as the capital of Florida in 1824, primarily because it was the midway point between two principal cities.

On March 3, 1839, Congress appropriated $20,000 for construction of the new Capitol. The old structure was torn down immediately, and Florida's government temporarily moved into rented quarters. Builders commenced work on the brick structure in 1839, and it was completed by 1845. This structure still remains the core of the Old Capitol.

In 1972, the Legislature authorized money for a new Capitol Complex to include House and Senate chambers and offices, along with a 22-story executive office building, which was completed in 1977.

THE SENATE CHAMBER

The Senate chamber, also known as the “floor,” is the room on the fourth floor of the Capitol where senators debate the merits of proposed legislation. The current chamber is the fifth used since the first session of the Senate was called to order in 1839.

A comprehensive renovation of the current Senate chamber started after the adjournment of the 2016 Legislative Session. Construction crews stripped down the chamber to its concrete and steel bones, incorporating several historical elements as well as new features designed to improve accessibility for people with unique abilities while preserving history at the same time. The renovated chamber was unveiled during a ceremonial opening on November 22, 2016, for the organization session. The chamber now has a timeless design which accommodates modern technology and reflects the elements of the Florida Historic Capitol.

On the floor above the chamber is the gallery. Citizens may sit in the gallery to observe the Senate in session. From the gallery, attention is drawn to the rostrum where the President is presiding. Above the rostrum is the Senate Seal, which was originally adopted in 1972 and revised in 1972 and 2016.
The President of the Senate presides over the Senate, and the Speaker of the House presides over the House of Representatives. The President and Speaker have many other responsibilities in addition to presiding over the chamber during session, including appointing members to committees and appointing chairs of committees.

The President Pro Tempore and Speaker Pro Tempore preside over their respective chambers in the absence of the President or Speaker.

NONMEMBER OFFICERS

The Senate elects a Secretary of the Senate and the Speaker of the House appoints a Clerk of the House. These nonmember constitutional officers have various responsibilities including keeping the records of their respective chambers, authenticating each bill passed by the legislature, and publishing the journals and calendars of their respective chambers. During session, each day’s official actions are recorded and published in a journal. The Senate Journal is considered the official record of the Florida Senate as overseen by the Secretary of the Senate. Daily journals are provisional. Journals are available at www.flsenate.gov. Vote disclosure records are also available.

SERGEANTS AT ARMS

Each chamber has a Sergeant at Arms who is in charge of keeping order in the chamber, gallery, and committee rooms. Each sergeant also maintains that chamber’s property. The recorded history of the Office of Sergeant at Arms dates back to the 1400s, though it likely existed well before that because preserving order was essential to the conduct of business in even the earliest legislative chambers. The first Florida Senate Sergeant at Arms was appointed in 1839 when Florida was still a territory.

A concerned citizen, advocacy group, government agency, or legislator has an idea to make the State a better place.

If the legislator or legislators decide it is a good issue, then the idea is drafted into a legislative bill.

The new bill is filed, given a “First Reading,” and assigned to one or more committees.

In each committee, to which the bill is referred, the bill is debated and amended if changes are needed. If approved in one committee, the bill moves on to the next referenced committee.

If the bill is approved by all assigned committees, then the bill is placed on the calendar to be heard on the floor. When it comes up on the calendar, the bill is debated, amended, and then voted on by the entire chamber.

If the bill passes one chamber, it must make its way through the other chamber and follow the same process. A bill may go back and forth between chambers until a consensus is reached.

Once both chambers pass the same bill, it proceeds to the Governor. The Governor can do one of three things:
1. Sign the bill into law;
2. Decide to veto the bill; or
3. Allow the bill to become law without a signature.

If the Governor signs the bill, allows the bill to become law without his signature, or if the Governor vetoes the bill and both the House and Senate override the veto by a two-thirds vote, then...

The idea has become a law in the State of Florida!

VOTE – A decision on a question, either affirmative or negative.
STATE SEAL
In 1985, a revised Great Seal of the State of Florida was presented to the Governor and Cabinet. The previous version of the state seal had several historical errors that were corrected in the 1985 seal. The current seal features a Seminole woman rather than a western Plains Indian, as was depicted on earlier seals. The image of a steamboat has been made more accurate, and the seal now includes a sabal palm, our state tree, instead of a cocoa palm.

Through the years, the appearance of the state seal has changed considerably. The steamboat, for instance, has been depicted in a variety of ways. Also, the earliest official state seal pictured a mountainous background that was later removed because it did not represent Florida’s flat terrain. The Indian woman has worn various types of clothing, some of them more historically accurate than others. In one version of the seal, for example, the woman wore a feather headdress of a style worn only by Indian men. Despite the changes in the appearance of the seal, the basic elements of the Great Seal of the State of Florida have remained the same.

STATE FLAG
The 1899 Legislature adopted a joint resolution that led to the design of our current flag: “The State Flag shall conform with standard commercial sizes and be of the following proportions and descriptions: The seal of the state, in diameter one-half of the hoist, shall occupy the center of a white background. Red bars, in width one-fifth the hoist, shall extend from each corner towards the center, to the outer rim of the seal.”

STATE MOTTO
“In God We Trust” was adopted by the Florida Legislature as part of the state seal in 1868. This is also the motto of the United States and is a slight variation on Florida’s first state motto, “In God is our Trust.” In 2006, “In God We Trust” was officially designated in state statute as Florida’s motto.
STATE ANTHEM
Responding to an initiative to find a new Florida state song, the Florida Music Educators Association managed an online contest to find a new song to represent the state. The winning song was "Florida, Where the Sawgrass Meets the Sky," written by Jan Hinton, a music teacher from Pompano Beach. In the 2008 Legislative Session, a compromise was reached that kept the old state song "Old Folks at Home" (with revised lyrics) and designated "Florida, Where the Sawgrass Meets the Sky" as the new state anthem. Sawgrass grows in Florida's coastal marshes and is particularly common in the Everglades, where it stretches as far as the eye can see.

Florida, Where the Sawgrass Meets the Sky

Florida, where the sawgrass meets the sky,
Florida, where our hearts will ever lie,
Sitting proud in the ocean like a sentinel true,
Always shielding your own, yet giving welcome.

Florida, land of flowers, land of light,
Florida, where our dreams can all take flight.
Whether youths' vibrant morning or the twilight of years,
There are treasures for all who venture here in Florida.

Mockingbirds cry and gators lie out in the sun,
Bridges span southward to the Keys and rockets skyward run,
The orange blossoms' sweet perfume and fireworks fill the air,
And cultures rich our native people share.

Florida, where the sawgrass meets the sky,
Florida, where our hearts will ever lie,
Sitting proud in the ocean like a sentinel true,
Always shielding your own, yet giving welcome.

Florida, land of flowers, land of light,
Florida, where our dreams can all take flight.
Whether youths' vibrant morning or the twilight of years,
There are treasures for all who venture here in Florida.
STATE DESSERT
The 2022 Legislature designated strawberry shortcake as the official state dessert. Florida produces 12% of the U.S. value of strawberries annually. Strawberries are the second highest valued of the berry, potato, vegetable, and watermelon crops in Florida. Strawberry shortcake is a dessert consisting of a base of shortcake, which resembles a biscuit with a touch of cake, a layer of sweet, sliced strawberries, and a healthy dollop of whipped cream.

STATE HORSE
The 2008 Legislature designated Florida Cracker Horse (Marshtackie) as the official state horse. Florida Cracker Horses were a fundamental part of the Florida cattle industry, which began around 500 years ago and is thriving today. It is reported that the ancestors of today’s Florida Cracker Horses were introduced into what is now Florida around 1521 when Ponce de Leon brought horses, cattle and other livestock on his second trip to the region.

STATE FRUIT
The 2008 Legislature designated the orange (Citrus sinensis and hybrids thereof) as the official state fruit. Florida is a top producer of oranges in the nation and internationally. The state fruit is the ingredient in the state beverage, Orange Juice.

STATE HONEY
The 2016 Legislature designated tupelo honey as the official state honey. Pure tupelo honey is commercially harvested in northwest Florida and has a distinctive greenish tint. The honey comes from the Ogeechee Tupelo tree, also known as the White Tupelo. This tree blossoms for a short season, usually only a few weeks in late April into early May.

STATE FLOWER
The blossom of the orange tree (Citrus sinensis) is one of the most fragrant flowers in Florida. Millions of these white flowers perfume the atmosphere throughout central and south Florida during orange blossom time. The orange blossom was selected as the state flower by the 1909 Legislature.
STATE BIRD
Designated by the 1927 Legislature, the mockingbird is Florida’s state bird. Its own song has a pleasant lilting sound and is, at times, both varied and repetitive. Often, the mockingbird sings all night long, especially under bright springtime moonlight. Mockingbirds are usually about ten inches in length, with a fifteen-inch wingspan, grayish upper portions, white undersides, and white patches on the tail and wings. The female has slightly less whiteness in its feathers than the male. The mockingbird is helpful to humans because it usually feeds on insects and weed seeds. In the summer and fall, it also eats ripe berries. It lives in Florida year-round and is known for its singing voice and mimicry skills. Its Latin name means “mimic of many tongues.”

STATE WILDFLOWER
The 1991 Legislature named the Coreopsis Florida’s official wildflower. These colorful flowers are used extensively in Florida’s roadside plantings and highway beautification programs. The coreopsis is found in a variety of colors, ranging from golden yellow to pink. The flower is a food source for seed-eating birds.

STATE BUTTERFLY
The Zebra Longwing became the state butterfly in 1996. It is common in south Florida, especially in the Everglades National Park. However, the longwing is not common in north Florida. This black and yellow butterfly is known for dining on the sweet nectar of passion flowers.

STATE ANIMAL
Students throughout the state of Florida voted the panther as our state animal in 1982. Panthers are pale brown and black in color and play a large part in our wildlife ecosystem. They have been on the federal endangered species list since 1967 and on the state endangered list since 1973. Panthers have been protected from legal hunting in Florida since 1958. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission is responsible for the management and preservation of the panther.
STATE SALTWATER REPTILE
The Loggerhead sea turtle was named state saltwater reptile in 2008. Honors students at Florida State University Middle School worked with State Representative Curtis Richardson to make the Loggerhead sea turtle one of Florida’s state symbols. It is the most common sea turtle in Florida. Florida beaches host about 90 percent of their nests. Loggerheads are reddish brown and named for their large heads. They can weigh up to 350 pounds and reach up to three feet in length. Females travel thousands of miles back to the same beach every two or more years to lay eggs, then use the moon and stars to find their way back to the ocean. The Loggerhead sea turtle is an endangered species.

STATE SALTWATER MAMMAL
The 1975 Legislature designated the “porpoise, also commonly known as the dolphin,” our saltwater mammal. The porpoise belongs to the mammalian order Cetacea. It is gray or black with a slightly lighter underside. A system of echos, much like sonar, directs them in their travels. Porpoises have no sense of smell, but they make up for this loss with sharp eyesight and extraordinary hearing. Historically, sailors took the presence of porpoises near their boats as a sign of good luck.

STATE SHELL
The horse conch (Pleuroloca gigantea), also known as the giant band shell, has been Florida's official state shell since its designation by the Legislature in 1969. This shell is native to Florida and can grow to a length of twenty-four inches. Young horse conchs have orange-colored shells; adults have orange apertures. At least 535 million years ago, mollusks acquired the ability to secrete a carbonate of lime solution that formed a hard, protective shell around them. The word “conch” comes from a Greek word meaning “shell.” The shell is the external skeleton of a soft-bodied animal that inhabits it.

STATE REPTILE
In 1987, the American alligator (Alligator mississippiensis) was designated the official state reptile. It has long been an unofficial symbol of the state as the alligator originally symbolized Florida’s untamed lands. Alligators are found throughout Florida and in parts of other southeastern states. They like lakes, swamps, canals, and other wetland habitats. They eat fish, turtles, and many other animals. Alligators should not be fed because this causes them to lose their fear of humans. Feeding alligators is also against Florida law. Alligators are now under controlled management by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission. This commission works to preserve the species and the wetland habitats that they and other Florida wildlife inhabit.
STATE SALTWATER FISH
The 1975 Legislature named the sailfish as Florida’s state saltwater fish. A sailfish is dark blue on top and brown-blue on the sides with a silvery white underbelly and many black spots. Its upper jaw is elongated in the form of a spear, and the first dorsal fin is in the shape of a large sail. The sailfish is a rapidly growing species, reaching up to 7 feet long and 116 pounds. Sailfish are not unique to Florida; they are found nearly everywhere there is warm ocean water. However, Florida sailfishing is legendary, especially in the Fort Pierce, Miami, and the Keys areas during colder months. Sailfish migrate southward as the weather chills in the north. They are found offshore in south Florida near the Gulf Stream and off the Panhandle. They feed on smaller fishes and squid at the surface or at mid-depths.

STATE FRESHWATER FISH
In 1975, the Legislature named the Florida largemouth bass, the largest member of the sunfish family, as the official state freshwater fish. It usually has light green to brown sides with a dark line down the side. The upper jaw of the largemouth bass extends beyond the rear edge of the eye. It prefers clear, nonflowing water and aquatic vegetation that provides food and cover. Largemouth bass are found in rivers, lakes, reservoirs, ponds, and estuaries, usually at depths of 20 feet or less. The largemouth bass is Florida’s most popular freshwater game fish.

STATE MARINE MAMMAL
The manatee became the state marine mammal in 1975. The manatee, which is also known as the sea cow, big beaver, mermaid, or “furnished with hands,” is a gray, waterplant-eating marine mammal that reaches eight to fourteen feet in length and can weigh more than a ton. The manatee is on the endangered species list, but chances for its survival are good if we, as citizens of this state, take steps to ensure its safety. The Florida Manatee Sanctuary Act of 1978 and later regulations have limited the speed of boats in waters populated by manatees during winter months, when more than 1,500 of the creatures swim to warm bays and rivers to avoid pneumonia and death.
STATE GEM
United States astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin “Buzz” Aldrin landed on the moon on July 20, 1969, aboard the Apollo 11 spacecraft. Since this and all other astronaut-controlled spaceflights had been launched from the Kennedy Space Center in Brevard County, the Florida Legislature sought to memorialize this “giant step” for humankind. In 1970, lawmakers adopted the moonstone as the official state gem.

STATE STONE
In 1979, agatized coral was designated the official state stone. Coral is the outside skeleton of tiny ocean animals called polyps, which live in colonies attached to hard underwater surfaces. When alive, polyps combine their own carbon dioxide with the lime in warm seawater to form a limestone-like hard surface, or coral. Agatized coral occurs when silica in the ocean water hardens, replacing the limy corals with a form of quartz known as chalcedony. This long process (20-30 million years) results in the formation of a “pseudomorph,” meaning that one mineral has replaced another without having lost its original form. Agatized coral is found in three main Florida locations: Tampa Bay, the Econfina River, and the Withlacoochee/Suwannee River beds.

STATE TREE
The 1953 Legislature designated the sabal palm our state tree. The sabal palm grows in any kind of soil and is found throughout the state. There are many uses of the sabal palm, including medicine, food, and landscaping. In 1970, the Legislature mandated that the sabal palm should replace the cocoa palm on the state seal.

STATE PIE
The 2006 Legislature designated key lime pie as the official state pie. The key limes (Citrus aurantiifolia, Swingle) used to make this dessert are named after the Florida Keys where the key limes originated in the United States. The first key lime pie was created in the 1850s in south Florida. Made using key limes and sweetened condensed milk, the recipe became popular in early Florida because it did not require refrigeration.

STATE BEVERAGE
Whenever the words “orange juice” are read, written, or spoken, many people automatically think of Florida. During the Second World War, scientists invented a process for making concentrated orange juice. Soon, a frozen concentrate was developed that transformed orange juice production into a multibillion dollar industry. In 1967, the Florida Legislature designated orange juice as the official state beverage.
SENATE EMBLEMS

THE SENATE SEAL
The Senate Seal was officially adopted in 1972, revised in 2015 and 2016, and is included in Senate Rule 14. Previously, there were no records in the Senate journals or rules of any official Senate Seal. It seems that before 1972, an unofficial seal or the state seal was used when necessary. The perimeter of the seal contains the words “Senate” and “State of Florida.” The center contains the Florida state flag and the United States flag above a disc containing the words, “In God We Trust,” arched above a gavel, quill, and scroll symbols of the Legislature. The quill depicts the writing of laws, the gavel depicts control or authority in the presiding officer, and the scroll depicts the parchment on which laws are permanently written. It is this body of written law upon which rests the very foundation of this nation’s “rule of law,” as opposed to “rule of men.”

THE SENATE COAT OF ARMS
The Senate Coat of Arms was officially adopted in 1972, revised in 2015 and 2016, and is included in Senate Rule 14. However, variations of the coat of arms as we know it today have made appearances before the coat was officially adopted. The current coat of arms contains the Florida state flag and the United States flag above the Great Seal of Florida. At the base are the words: “The Florida Senate.” The seal used in the Senate Coat of Arms is not the official seal of the State of Florida because it does not include the words “Great Seal of the State of Florida: In God We Trust,” as outlined in section 15.03, Florida Statutes.
Florida has had six Constitutions since it became a state. The first Constitution was drafted in St. Joseph, now known as Port St. Joe. Presently, Florida is governed by the Constitution of 1968, as subsequently amended.

Florida's first Legislative Council, which was supposed to meet in Pensacola on June 10, 1822, did not meet until 44 days later due to hazardous and time-consuming travel.

The total land area of Florida is 53,625 square miles. The total water area is 12,133 square miles.

In 1824, three log cabins were erected in Tallahassee to accommodate the Legislative Council. This was Florida's first Capitol.

In the 1890s, several efforts were made to move the state capital from Tallahassee. Choices included Jacksonville, Ocala, and St. Augustine.

Florida's fourth and present Capitol was officially opened on March 31, 1978, by Governor Reubin Askew.

Construction of Florida's present Capitol required 3,700 tons of structural steel and 2,800 tons of reinforcing steel. The Capitol contains 25,000 cubic yards of concrete, the equivalent of 16 football fields, each one foot thick.

Florida has been home to such famed writers as Ernest Hemingway, Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, Tennessee Williams, and Zora Neale Hurston.

The word “Tallahassee” is of Creek derivation and is frequently translated as “old town” or “old fields.” The name may have been taken from the Seminole Indians who occupied the area.

Juan Ponce de Leon came ashore on the northeast coast of Florida sometime between April 2 and April 8, 1513. He called the area La Florida, in honor of Pascua Florida (feast of the flowers), a popular celebration held in Spain around Easter.

A prior Constitution in 1868 provided that the Seminole Tribe was entitled to a member in the Florida Senate and House.
