I. SUMMARY:

The bill provides for the suspension or revocation of any person's driver's license who, 1) does not fulfill the agreements for a bad check diversion program for passing a worthless bank check, or 2) is being prosecuted for passing a worthless bank check and has an outstanding warrant for failure to appear in court for that case.

The bill, also, provides for notification of the requirements for reinstatement of the license, to include:

- Full payment of restitution, court costs and fees incurred as a result of the warrant.
- Cancellation of the warrant by the issuing law enforcement agency.
- Payment of an additional $10 fee to the Highway Safety Operating Trust Fund.

The bill directs the Department of Law Enforcement to make its records electronically accessible to the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles for the purpose of identifying motorists with outstanding warrants.

The bill has an effective date of "July 1 of the year in which enacted."

II. SUBSTANTIVE RESEARCH:

A. PRESENT SITUATION:

Passing Worthless Bank Checks

Section 832.05, F.S., provides that it is unlawful for any person to pass a check, knowing at the time that there were insufficient funds on deposit to pay for it. The offense is punished as a 1st-degree misdemeanor (max. 1-year in jail, and a $1,000 fine). Issuing such check in the amount of $150, or more, in exchange for something of value, is punished as a 3rd-degree felony (max. 5-years prison, and a $5,000 fine).

Current Methods Of Resolution

Section 832.08, F.S., explains the state attorneys' bad check diversion program. The program requires the defendant to enter into a written agreement to:

- Attend a program designed to educate offenders about the proper use of checks.
- Make full restitution on the check.
- Full payment of fees incurred by the program, itself.
- Waive the right to a speedy trial.

Successful completion of the program results in dismissal of the charge. Failure to complete the program results in prosecution for the offense.

Current Offenses Which Result In Revocation Of Driver's Licenses

Section 322.26, F.S., provides for mandatory revocation of one's driver's license for:

- Manslaughter resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle.
- Driving Under the Influence of Alcohol (D.U.I.)
- Any felony, the commission of which involved the use of a motor vehicle.
- Any failure to stop under laws which require the motorist to do so, involving death or serious personal injury.
- Perjury or false affidavit to the department relating to the ownership or operation of a motor vehicle.
- Three convictions of reckless driving within 1 year.
- Lewdness, the commission of which involved the use of a motor vehicle.

Section 322.245, F.S., also provides for mandatory suspension of driver's licenses for non-payment of child support.

The Costs To Florida Consumers

Every year, each state attorney office handles thousands of bad check cases, most of which are handled through the bad check diversion programs pursuant to s. 832.08, F.S. The Florida Department of Law Enforcement estimates there are an average of 34,500 outstanding warrants for failure to appear on a worthless bank check case, at any given time. The Florida Retailers Federation conservatively estimates the cost of bad checks to retailers, and ultimately to Florida consumers, to be $10 million per year.

Previous Legislation Regarding Worthless Checks

HB 225, "An act relating to driver's licenses," was introduced during the 1997 regular session. HB 225 did not suspend or revoke anyone's driver's license, as does the bill (HB 3275). HB 225 only prohibited the renewal of driver's licenses, once expired, for those persons who had outstanding warrants for passing worthless bank checks. HB 225 was passed in both houses of the Florida Legislature, but was vetoed by the Governor on May 29, 1998. The Governor's veto message states, in part:

Committee Substitute for House Bill 225 would prohibit the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles from renewing a driver's license if the license applicant has an outstanding warrant for passing a worthless bank check.

I recognize that losses due to passing worthless bank checks are staggering; however, I am concerned that targeting the economic crime of passing bad checks elevates that crime over warrants for violent offenses, and makes the state a collection agency for victims of only one type of crime.

Those who are wanted for this crime will be more likely to bypass license renewal altogether with the unintended consequence that this bill will lead to an increase in the number of unlicensed drivers on our roads. Certainly there are more effective means of easing the costs and difficulties of serving warrants in cases involving passing worthless bank checks.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Revokes Driver's Licenses For Unresolved Bad Check Offenses

The bill directs the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles to "suspend or revoke" the driver's license of any person who:

- 1) Does not fulfill the agreements for a bad check diversion program.

OR,

- 2) Fails to appear for a court date for a bad check and which results in the issuance of a warrant for arrest or capias.

The FDLE Is Required To Share Information With the DHSMV

The bill directs that the Florida Department of Law Enforcement will make its records electronically accessible by the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles for the purpose of identifying which drivers have outstanding warrants. The bill, also, requires the two agencies to work together to “develop and implement a plan” for identifying motorists with outstanding warrants for bad checks.

Notice Of Conditions For Reinstatement Required

The bill requires the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles to notify the affected motorists of the necessary steps to have their license reinstated. The steps include:

- Full payment of restitution, court costs and fees incurred as a result of the warrant.
- Cancellation of the warrant by the issuing law enforcement agency.
- Payment of an additional $10 fee to the Highway Safety Operating Trust Fund.

Effective Date

The act shall take effect July 1 of the year in which enacted.

The DHSMV projects a one-time expense for computer hardware and software in the amount of $23,430.

The DHSMV projects a yearly expense of $11,385 for the notice to approximately 34,500 drivers with outstanding warrants for bad checks.

Finally, the DHSMV projects $34,815 for yearly operating costs of the program.

IV. CONSEQUENCES OF ARTICLE VII, SECTION 18 OF THE FLORIDA CONSTITUTION:

A. APPLICABILITY OF THE MANDATES PROVISION:

The bill is not an unfunded mandate because it affects only state agencies, not local governments.

B. REDUCTION OF REVENUE RAISING AUTHORITY:

The bill does not reduce anyone's revenue raising authority.

C. REDUCTION OF STATE TAX SHARED WITH COUNTIES AND MUNICIPALITIES:

The bill does not reduce the state tax shared with counties and municipalities.

V. COMMENTS:

Concerns From the State Attorneys' Worthless Check Divisions

While the bill expressly requires the Florida Department of Law Enforcement to make its records accessible to the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, and for the two agencies to "develop and implement a plan," the bill makes no provision for requiring the same cooperation from the state attorney offices who, presumably, will have to communicate the names of those offenders who did not fulfill agreements for bad check diversion programs.

Assistant State Attorneys have, also, voiced concerns that the language "failure to complete" a bad check diversion program is vague in that a person who has been requested to enter into such a program, but who fails to respond to correspondence, may be included in this definition. Moreover, not only would they be responsible for preparing periodic lists of those who met the definition of having failed to complete the bad check diversion program, but they may also be responsible for updating those lists and periodically notifying the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles which offenders have complied with the program, since reported. Considering the tens of thousands of bad check cases which are assigned to such programs each year, state attorney offices could be faced with a new and unwieldy administrative workload with no additional funding or support provided by the bill.

VI. AMENDMENTS OR COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES:

The bill passed the Committee On Crime and Punishment on April 1, 1998 with three amendments.

Amendment 1: Removes the provision requiring license revocation for those motorists who fail to complete a check diversion program.

Amendment 2: Technical amendment to clarify the bill's intent that all three conditions for reinstatement must be met, not just any one of the three.

Amendment 3: Adds provision that allows driving privilege to be restored when the motorist obtains a restricted license for business or employment purposes, only.
