I. SUMMARY:

Agencies levy and collect fines for violations of statutory provisions or administrative rules by a regulated party. Such fines are appropriated by the Legislature in the annual appropriations process to particular programs or activities and are based upon estimates of collected amounts submitted by the agencies. Upon collection by an agency, the fine is deposited into a specific fund as directed by law.

HB 4275 would provide that proceeds from any fine levied and collected by an executive branch agency shall, notwithstanding any other provisions of state law, be deposited into the General Revenue Fund.

There is an indeterminate fiscal impact. An attached worksheet show the amounts of fines, forfeitures and judgments historically collected by agencies in the state and what these amounts represent of general revenue appropriations and total appropriations.
