I. SUMMARY:

HB 1409 creates the Florida Agricultural Development Act (act), establishing the Florida Agricultural Development Authority (authority). The purposes of the authority are to manage programs which assist beginning farmers and agribusinesses in acquiring agricultural land, improvements, technology, and depreciable agricultural property for farming; programs which promote diversification of the farm economy through the growth and development of new crops or livestock not customarily grown or produced in the state or for farmers who have transitioned out of existing agricultural activities into new or alternative agricultural crops; and programs which provide assistance in financing operating expenses and cash-flow requirements of farming.

The bill establishes a beginning farmer loan program in which the authority operates as a facilitator between farmers and financial institutions. The authority is given power to issue tax exempt "aggie bonds" to lending institutions to fund agricultural loans and to participate in any federal programs designed to assist beginning farmers. In effect, the authority will identify and coordinate the mechanisms by which beginning farmers and agribusinesses may obtain financing necessary to fund agricultural endeavors and enter into any agreements necessary to accomplish these purposes.

The act directs the authority to function as a state entity under the supervision of the Commissioner of Agriculture (commissioner) who will appoint seven board members, including the commissioner or a designee. The authority must prepare an annual report to be submitted to the Governor, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the Auditor General.

The bill identifies no start-up funding source for the authority. State expenditures in enacting this legislation would be approximately $115,927 in non-recurring expenses for FY 1999-2000.

II. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS:

A. PRESENT SITUATION:

The National Council of State Agricultural Finance Programs reports that there is no state agricultural loan program available in Florida. According to the United States Department of Agriculture National Commission on Small Farms, there are approximately 30 states that have some type of state agricultural loan program. The federal government has three agricultural loan programs available to Florida farmers: the United States Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency program, the Farm Credit System, and the Rural Business-Cooperative Service program. Farmers meeting specific criteria may apply for this assistance, as provided in the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996.

Currently, the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (department) operates a program (AgVenture Services) designed to provide assistance in areas such as planning, marketing, research, facilities and equipment discounts, and resource network referrals for start-up agribusinesses and fledgling enterprises. The program has 88 resource partners, including the United States Department of Agriculture, the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences of the University of Florida, and Enterprise Florida, Inc. Currently, 181 people have contacted the program for assistance and 14 of these have become active clients; 7 are having their plans modified by program staff; and 160 of these prospects are either still formulating their business ideas or developing a business plan.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

The bill creates the Florida Agricultural Development Act, establishing the Florida Agricultural Development Authority (authority), a state body to be operated under the supervision of the Commissioner of Agriculture (commissioner). The authority is to establish programs which accomplish the following:

- assist farmers, beginning farmers (including first-time farmers, family farmers, or farmers who are transitioning into a new or alternative crop), and agribusinesses in acquiring agricultural land, improvements, technology, and depreciable agricultural property for farming;
- promote diversification of the farm economy through the growth and development of new crops or livestock not customarily grown or produced in this state or that emphasize a vertical integration of state-produced agricultural products into a finished agricultural product or byproduct for consumption or use; and
- assist in financing operating expenses and cash-flow requirements of farming.

The authority is to be composed of seven members, appointed by the commissioner, including the commissioner or a designee. The board will be composed of appointments from the following entities:

- the Farm Credit System,
- the Florida Rural Development Committee,
- the Florida Farm Bureau Federation,
- a member who is an agricultural economist,
- a member with bonding or lending experience, and
- one member at large.

Initially, two members of the board are to be appointed for four-year terms, two members for three-year terms, and two members for two-year terms. Thereafter, all members are to be appointed for four-year terms.

Members of the board are directed to elect a chair and a vice chair annually and the commissioner shall appoint an executive director, who serves as secretary to the board, and serves at the pleasure of the commissioner. Duties of the executive director include advising the authority on matters relating to agricultural land and property and finance, carrying out all directives from the authority and the commissioner, and hiring and supervising staff pursuant to the direction of the board and the commissioner. Meetings are to be held at the call of the chair, at the request of the majority of the board membership or the commissioner, or at times prescribed by rules of the authority. Any meeting at which official acts are to be taken or public business is to be transacted or discussed must be open and noticed to the public.

The authority is required to prepare an annual report for the Governor, the President of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the Auditor General, to be presented by February 15th of every year. The report is to include the authority's operations and accomplishments, accounting and financial records, proposed and projected activities, recommendations to the Legislature, an analysis of the needs of Florida's beginning farmers and agribusinesses, and performance goals of the authority.

The authority will be set up as a facilitator between farmers and the lending institutions, and will coordinate communication, ascertain qualifications of applicants, and determine the best market lending rates. While the authority will not be functioning in a lending capacity, the authorization to do so in the future is built into the language of the bill. Tax exempt "aggie bonds" or notes will be issued by the authority to lending institutions to finance loans for qualified farmers and the authority is to function as a USDA-certified lender.

The bill creates provisions to use loans in conjunction with federal programs (such as United States Department of Agriculture Consolidated Farm Service Agency and the federal land bank) that are provided for in the Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act of 1996. Specific financial processes and powers are detailed in sections 570.258-570.270, F.S. The bill provides in section 570.273, F.S., that the act shall be "liberally construed to effect its purposes."

The bill establishes the agricultural development bond pool, and directs the Division of Bond Financing to reserve a $10,000,000 annual volume cap allocation for the aggregate amount of the bonds in the bond pool. It provides for yearly increases under specific circumstances and expands some of the language to include the agricultural pool when referring to other pools. In effect, section 159.804, F.S., specifies the actual dollar amount ($10,000,000) for bonds that may be issued with tax exemptions. On November 16th of each year, any unused portion of the initial allocation is to be diverted to the state allocation pool.

The act will take effect July 1, 1999.

Additionally, there are several specific grants of rulemaking authority.

(2) any new responsibilities, obligations or work for other governmental or private organizations or individuals?

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

According to the department, this bill should only be considered in conjunction with the department's 1999-2000 legislative budget request for 2 FTEs, a vehicle, administrative funding, and a promotional allocation for initial start-up. If this bill is passed by the Legislature, the department will need some initial non-recurring General Revenue funding to ensure program success. The salaries and expenses will be paid by the Florida Agricultural Development Authority after its first year of operation, when other revenue streams have been identified and secured. Without the needed funding, this program will be an "unfunded mandate" and could potentially divert in excess of $125,000 from other critical programs.

The department reports that "start up responsibilities for a program of this magnitude are significant...The extent of assistance on the department is unknown at this time."

IV. CONSEQUENCES OF ARTICLE VII, SECTION 18 OF THE FLORIDA CONSTITUTION:

A. APPLICABILITY OF THE MANDATES PROVISION:

The bill does not require counties or municipalities to spend funds or to take action requiring the expenditure of funds.

B. REDUCTION OF REVENUE RAISING AUTHORITY:

This bill does not reduce the authority that municipalities or counties have to raise revenue in the aggregate.

C. REDUCTION OF STATE TAX SHARED WITH COUNTIES AND MUNICIPALITIES:

This bill does not reduce any state tax shared with counties or municipalities.

V. COMMENTS:

The Committee on Financial Services adopted five amendments to HB 1409 on March 29, 1999. Two amendments clarified and specified the rulemaking authority granted to the Florida Agricultural Development Authority, and three technical amendments clarified references and corrected syntax.
