SUMMARY ANALYSIS

This bill authorizes the Division of Hotels and Restaurants to develop and implement a recognition program for public food service establishments. To receive recognition under the program, a food service establishment must demonstrate a commitment to ensuring food safety by requiring that its employees are trained and by meeting other best practices standards established by the state.

The bill will reduce inspections at recognized facilities to no more than twice per year as long as the facility maintains the standards associated with the designation. This will not prohibit the division from conducting re-inspections to verify that violations have been corrected, nor will it prohibit inspections in response to a documented public complaint or a suspected outbreak of a food-borne illness.

According to the division this bill will have no fiscal impact on state revenue expenditures.

The bill provides that the act will take effect upon becoming a law.

B. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Chapter 509, F.S., authorizes the Division of Hotels and Restaurants [division] of the Department of Business and Professional Regulation to regulate public lodging and public food service establishments.

Florida Administrative Code 61C-4.010, provides that public food service establishments shall be subject to the provisions of federal law, Chapter 3, Food Code, for purposes of food safety and sanitation issues, except when specifically authorized otherwise by rule. Combined, the Federal Food Code and Florida's Administrative Code provide comprehensive food service safety standards.

Section 509.039, F.S., requires the division to implement training and certification standards for all food service managers who are responsible for the storage, preparation, display, or serving of foods to the public. The division has adopted, by rule, the Conference for Food Protection's recommended accredited examination providers as those approved to examine individuals employed as food managers in the state. Certifications provided by these examinations are recognized and have nation-wide reciprocity.

Similarly, s. 509.049, F.S., requires the division to adopt, by rule, minimum food safety protection standards for food service employees. These standards are to be used in the training of food service employees who are responsible for the storage, preparation, display, or serving of food to the public in establishments subject to the regulation of Chapter 509, F.S.

According to the division, there are approximately 39,000 licensed public food service establishments in the state. Section 509.032(2)(a), F.S., requires each public food service establishment to be inspected biannually.

This bill authorizes the division to develop and implement a recognition program for public food service establishments. To receive recognition under the program, a food service establishment must train and certify all food service managers and food service employees and, if the establishment serves alcoholic beverages, train all alcoholic beverage servers and their managers pursuant to s. 561.705, the Responsible Vendor Law.

The bill authorizes the division to establish, by rule, the frequency of review required to maintain the designation and the circumstances under which a restaurant may be denied the use or continued use of the designation. A restaurant must be licensed and operating for at least six months before becoming eligible to apply for recognition under this program.

The designation is not transferable except when an existing establishment is being re-licensed in the name of an entity related to the current licensee by common ownership or control.

The bill requires the division to adopt a revised schedule of inspections for public food service establishments awarded the designation established under this program. Recognized facilities may be inspected no more than two times per year as long as the facility maintains the standards associated with the designation. This does not prohibit the division from conducting re-inspections to verify that violations have been corrected, nor does it prohibit inspections in response to a documented public complaint or a suspected outbreak of a food-borne illness.

C. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1. Creates s. 509.082, F.S., which establishes a recognition program for public food service establishments.

Section 2. Provides that the act will take effect upon becoming a law.
