8 (b) The subject matter of a revision or amendment to this 9 constitution proposed by initiative must be of constitutional 10 stature. If the Supreme Court determines that the proposed 11 initiative is not of constitutional stature, the Supreme Court 12 shall direct the Secretary of State to place the question on the 13 next general election ballot as a statutory initiative, which 14 shall be provided for by general law. A provision of 15 constitutional stature is a provision that guarantees important
16 fundamental rights, requires the legislature to address an issue 17 of great importance, limits the powers of the three branches of
