SUMMARY ANALYSIS

HB 4009 passed the House on March 24, 2011, and subsequently passed the Senate on May 3, 2011. The bill was approved by the Governor on June 21, 2011, chapter 2011-198, Laws of Florida, and becomes effective July 1, 2011.

The bill repeals ch. 555, F.S., removing the statutory requirements concerning access to and from public roads and other requirements that specifically apply to outdoor theaters.

The bill does not have a fiscal impact.

I. SUBSTANTIVE INFORMATION

A. EFFECT OF CHANGES:

Current Situation

Outdoor Theaters

Chapter 555, F.S., was created in 1953, to provide for the safe ingress and egress to and from public roads by preventing hazardous conditions and locations in constructing outdoor theaters such as drive-ins.<sup>1</sup> The DOT reports the language is obsolete.

The law applies to outdoor theaters, including any place for outdoor assembly used for the showing of plays, operas, and motion pictures to an audience viewing from parked vehicles, constructed after June 2, 1953. A theater owner must prove compliance with the law before being issued an occupational license.

The law provides that all entrances and exits to the theater must comply with the rules of the Department of Transportation (DOT) and the following:

- Not more than one entrance may be provided for each access road.
- The portion of the entrance or exit lying within a public road right-of-way must comply with the regulations applicable to that road.
- Not more than two exits may be provided for each access highway.
- No entrance or exit on a state road may be located within 500 feet of its intersection with another state road.
- Enclosures surrounding the theater may not begin less than 200 feet from the centerline of the nearest state road.

The law also provides requirements for storage space for vehicles, placement of movie screens, and lighting.

Currently, about six drive-in theaters operate in Florida.<sup>2</sup>

Other Applicable Regulations

Under the State Highway System Access Management Act, vehicular access and connections to or from the state highway system are regulated by the Department of Transportation (DOT).<sup>3</sup> Under the Act, a connection to a state road may not be constructed or substantially altered without first obtaining an access permit from the DOT.

Local land development regulations also apply to outdoor theaters.
