need for alimony. If the court finds that the party has met its burden in demonstrating a need for alimony and that the other party has the ability to pay alimony, the court shall determine a monthly award of alimony that may not exceed 25 percent of the obligor's gross monthly income, as calculated under s.
61.30(2) (a), with the exception that gross income does not include, consistent with paragraph (3) (h), sources of income acquired outside of the marriage which were not relied upon
