SUMMARY ANALYSIS

Currently, student education records are protected by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and state law. However, neither FERPA nor state law specifies which information may or may not be collected.

State law also requires each district school board to request the social security number (SSN) of each enrolled student; however, a student may choose to withhold his or her SSN and school boards are prohibited from requiring students to furnish a SSN as a condition of enrollment or graduation. The student's SSN must be used as his or her student identification number in the school district's management information system and in the student's permanent records.

At the direction of the Governor, the Commissioner of Education conducted a review of the state's student data privacy and security measures. The commissioner recommended several changes to state law regarding education records privacy. This bill codifies the commissioner's recommendations by:

- Clarifying that parents must be notified annually regarding their rights with respect to education records.
- Clarifying that a parent may be awarded attorney's fees and court costs if the parent is granted injunctive relief in an action to enforce his or her rights regarding education records.
- Prohibiting any agency or institution from collecting information regarding political affiliation, voting history, religious affiliation, or biometric information of a student or student's parent or sibling.
- Prohibiting the disclosure of confidential and exempt education records to any person, public body, body politic, or political subdivision unless disclosure is authorized by FERPA or in response to a subpoena or court order. Disclosure to federal government agencies is also prohibited, unless authorized by FERPA, required by federal law, or in response to a subpoena or court order.
- Requiring that governing boards of agencies or institutions may only designate directory information in accordance with FERPA at a regularly scheduled meeting at which time the board must consider any potential risks to student privacy from such designation.

In addition, the bill requires the Florida Department of Education to create a statewide process for assigning students identification numbers that are not SSNs, thereby phasing out the use of SSNs for that purpose.

The bill does not have a fiscal impact on state or local governments.

The bill takes effect upon becoming a law.

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Education Records Privacy

Present Situation

Federal Law

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act¹ (FERPA) is a federal law that grants parents the right to inspect, review, and challenge the content of their child's education records and, subject to certain exceptions, control the disclosure of education records or personally identifiable information² contained in the records.³ When a student turns 18 years of age, or enters a postsecondary institution at any age, the rights under FERPA transfer from the parents to the student (eligible student).⁴

Educational agencies and institutions⁵ must comply with FERPA as a condition to receiving federal education funds.⁶ An educational agency or institution that receives federal education funds must annually notify parents and eligible students of their rights under FERPA.⁷

Among other things, FERPA requires educational agencies and institutions to obtain written consent from a parent or eligible student before disclosing education records or personally identifiable information contained therein.⁸ The written consent must be signed and dated and must specify the records that may be disclosed; state the purpose of the disclosure; and identify the party or class of parties to whom the disclosure may be made.⁹

There are several exceptions to the "prior consent" requirement which authorize disclosure of education records or personally identifiable information. Generally, these exceptions address specific situations in which disclosure without consent is necessary for the efficient operation of the school or school district; to comply with court orders and federal audit and grant reporting requests; and to protect the health, safety, and welfare of students. These exceptions include disclosure:

- To the parent of a student who is not an eligible student or to an eligible student if he or she is not claimed as a dependent on his or her parent's income taxes.¹⁰
- To other school officials, including teachers, within the agency or institution.¹¹

² FERPA defines "personally identifiable information" to include, without limitation, the names of the student and his or her parents or other family members; the address of the student or student's family; the student's social security number, student number, biometric record, or other personal identifier; indirect identifiers, such as the student's date of birth, place of birth, and mother's maiden name; and other information that could reasonably identify a student. 34 C.F.R. s. 99.3 (definition of "personally identifiable information").

³ 20 U.S.C. s. 1232g(a) and (b); 34 C.F.R. part 99. In cases of divorced, separated, or never-married parents, each parent is presumed to have rights under FERPA unless a state statute, court order, or other legally binding document provides to the contrary. 34 C.F.R. s. 99.4.

- Regarding sex offenders and other individuals who are required to register with law enforcement under federal law.²⁵

In addition, an educational agency or institution or recipient of education records may release education records without prior consent if all personally identifiable information is removed from the records and the agency, institution, or party reasonably determines that the student's identity cannot be ascertained from the records.²⁶

One of the most frequently used exceptions concerns “directory information.” FERPA defines directory information as “the student’s name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended by the student.”²⁷ An educational agency or institution must give public notice regarding the types of personally identifiable information that the agency or institution has designated as directory information and allow a reasonable opportunity for parents or eligible students to object to such release.²⁸

State Law

Florida law regarding education records privacy establishes a public records exemption for records held by Florida educational agencies and institutions²⁹ and requires that such records be protected in accordance with FERPA. In order to maintain the eligibility of public educational institutions and agencies for federal funding, the law directs the State Board of Education to comply with FERPA after evaluating and determining that FERPA is consistent with the following principles:

- Students and their parents shall have the right to access their education records, including the right to inspect and review those records.
- Students and their parents shall have the right to waive their access to their education records in certain circumstances.
- Students and their parents shall have the right to challenge the content of education records in order to ensure that the records are not inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise a violation of privacy or other rights.
- Students and their parents shall have the right of privacy with respect to such records and reports.
- Students and their parents shall receive notice of their rights with respect to education records.³⁰

The state board must also monitor changes to FERPA and advise the Legislature of any changes necessitating amendments to state law.³¹

State law allows a student or parent who has his or her rights under FERPA vindicated in court to collect attorney fees and court costs, but does not specify what constitutes such a “vindication of rights.” The law is silent regarding the collection of information regarding political affiliation, voting history, religious affiliation, and biometric information. Release of directory information must be consistent with FERPA.³²

Commissioner Review and Legislative Recommendations

On September 23, 2013, after receiving feedback from stakeholders during the Governor's Education Summit, the Governor issued an Executive Order which, among other things, directed the Commissioner of Education to make improvements to state policies regarding student data privacy and security. The order directed the commissioner to:

- Conduct a student data security review;
- Issue policies, including internal protocols and operating procedures, for the Florida Department of Education (DOE), school districts, and any assessment provider or other entity with access to student data, in order to protect student information and prevent its misuse;
- Ensure that protections are in place to prevent the release of student education records without the written consent of the student or parent, except as specifically provided by Florida law; and
- Make recommendations by December 31, 2013, for rule changes or legislation needed to protect student privacy.³³

Accordingly, DOE reviewed its compliance with state and federal education records privacy laws and its internal protocols and procedures governing information security. DOE also commissioned SecureWorks to conduct an independent assessment of DOE's information security protocols and procedures. The Auditor General is independently auditing DOE's compliance with state laws and rules related to information security.³⁴ Among other things, DOE's report on these activities indicates that:

- Individual, personally identifiable student information collected and maintained by the department may only be accessed by authorized individuals as prescribed by FERPA.
- Access to the student databases themselves is restricted to properly authorized individuals or school districts by user ID and password.
- Data security requirements are incorporated into the procurement process for information technology services to ensure that contracts and agreements require outside contractors to protect the privacy of student information.³⁵
- Based upon the results of SecureWorks' assessment, DOE will consider, among other things, establishing an information systems steering committee to develop and oversee its information security policies and take measures to review and modify various information security policies, as needed.³⁶

DOE's report includes data security recommendations for both the department and school districts. The Auditor General's audit has not been completed; however, DOE indicates its willingness to consider any improvements suggested by the auditors.³⁷

In addition, the commissioner recommended several changes to state law regarding education records privacy, including:

- Clarifying that students and parents must be notified annually regarding their rights with respect to education records.
- Clarifying that a parent or student may be awarded attorney fees and court costs if the parent or student is granted injunctive relief in an action to enforce his or her rights regarding education records.
- Prohibiting any educational agency or institution from collecting, obtaining, or retaining information on the political affiliation, voting history, religious affiliation, or biometric information of a student or student's parent or sibling.

- Prohibiting the disclosure of confidential and exempt education records to any person, public body, body politic, political subdivision, or any agency of the federal government, except when authorized or required by law or in response to a subpoena or court order.
- Requiring that governing boards of agencies or institutions may only designate directory information in accordance with FERPA at a regularly scheduled meeting after considering whether such disclosure risks violating student privacy.³⁸

Effect of Proposed Changes

The bill codifies the commissioner’s legislative recommendations regarding student data privacy and security to clarify and strengthen several aspects of state law. By specifying that students and parents must be notified annually about their rights regarding education records, the bill aligns state law with FERPA’s annual notice requirement. Provisions specifying that attorney’s fees and court costs may be awarded to a student or parent who receives “injunctive relief” more clearly indicate what constitutes a vindication of rights meriting such an award.

The bill prohibits any educational agency or institution from collecting, obtaining, or retaining information on the political affiliation, voting history, religious affiliation, or biometric information of a student, a student’s parent, or a student’s sibling. The bill defines biometric information as information collected from the electronic measurement or evaluation of any physical or behavioral characteristics that may be personally identifiable, including characteristics of fingerprints, hands, eyes, and the voice. The bill would, therefore, not allow agencies or institutions to use fingerprint scans, hand scans, retina or iris scans, face geometry scans, or voice prints. These provisions provide specific protection from the collection of sensitive information that has little, if any, bearing on a student’s education.

The bill also prohibits disclosure of confidential and exempt education records to any person, public body, body politic, or political subdivision unless disclosure is authorized by FERPA or in response to a subpoena or court order. Disclosure to federal government agencies is also prohibited, unless authorized by FERPA, required by federal law, or in response to a subpoena or court order. These provisions provide clear guidance as to whom and when information may be disclosed.

Under FERPA, directory information is one of several exceptions to the “prior consent” requirement for disclosing education records or personally identifiable information. The bill provides additional protections regarding the disclosure of directory information by requiring the governing board of an educational agency or institution, when designating student information as directory information, to do so at a regularly scheduled public meeting. The governing board must consider whether designating the information as directory information will put students at risk of being targeted by marketing campaigns, the media, or criminals.

Student Identification Numbers

Present Situation

Florida law requires each district school board to request the social security number (SSN) of each student; however, a student may choose to withhold his or her SSN and school boards may not require students to provide a SSN as a condition of enrollment or graduation. Each school district must use the student’s SSN as his or her student identification number in its management information system and in the student’s permanent records. The school district must also indicate when the student identification number is not the student’s SSN.³⁹

Florida law states the Legislature’s acknowledgment that SSNs were originally intended to be used only in the administration of the federal Social Security System. Recognizing this intent, the law expresses the Legislature’s intent to maintain a balanced public policy by monitoring agency use and limiting the collection of SSNs, unless the:

³⁸ Id.

³⁹ Section 1008.386, F.S.

- Purpose of the collection is stated in writing; and
- Collection is specifically authorized by law or is imperative for the performance of the agency's duties and responsibilities as prescribed by law.⁴⁰

A 2010 report by the Office of the Inspector General of the United States questioned widespread use of SSNs as primary student identification numbers, given the increasing threat of identity theft. Furthermore, the report determined that unnecessary or redundant collection of SSNs is a significant vulnerability to student privacy. The report recommended that states and K-12 schools nationwide take measures to limit the use of SSNs as primary student identifiers.⁴¹

DOE has also recognized that using the SSN as a student identifier increases opportunities for a student's information to be misused or stolen. Consequently, DOE is implementing changes to statewide data collection practices which will deemphasize the use of SSNs as student identifiers. School districts will continue to collect each student's SSN for enrollment purposes and for initial entry into the state data system; however, once entered into the system, each student will be assigned a primary identification number that is not the SSN. This unique number will then be used to identify the student for record keeping and data collection purposes, thereby decreasing the likelihood that a student's identity can be linked to his or her SSN.

Effect of Bill

The bill requires a school district to request a student's SSN upon initial enrollment in a Florida public school. It also requires DOE to create a statewide process for assigning student identification numbers that are not SSNs. Once the process is implemented, school districts will be prohibited from using SSNs in their management information systems. These changes decrease the likelihood of duplicative requests for student SSNs, thereby increasing the security and confidentiality of student SSNs.

IV. AMENDMENTS/COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES

On February 4, 2014, the Choice & Innovation Subcommittee adopted a proposed committee substitute (PCS) and reported HB 195 favorably as a committee substitute. The original bill was limited in scope to the collection of student biometric information. It required school districts that collect student biometric information to formulate policies governing the collection of such information and specified requirements regarding records confidentiality, maintenance, and security; conditions on disclosure; parental notice; and criminal penalties for unauthorized use.

Unlike the bill, the PCS codifies the Commissioner of Education's legislative recommendations regarding educational records privacy and data security. The PCS expands the application of the bill to include "agencies", i.e, any board, agency, or other entity that provides administrative control or direction of or performs services for public elementary or secondary schools, centers, or other institutions and “institutions”, i.e., any public elementary, middle, or high school; center; or institution; and the Florida School for the Deaf and the Blind and Florida Virtual School. Rather than requiring school districts to formulate policies regarding collection of student biometric information, the PCS flatly prohibits agencies and institutions from collecting the biometric information, political affiliation, voting history, or religious affiliation of a student or student’s parent or sibling. Additionally, the PCS:

- Clarifies that parents must be notified annually regarding their rights with respect to education records.
- Clarifies that a parent may be awarded attorney’s fees and court costs if the parent is granted injunctive relief in an action to enforce his or her rights regarding education records.
- Prohibits the disclosure of confidential and exempt education records to any person, public body, body politic, or political subdivision unless disclosure is authorized by FERPA or in response to a subpoena or court order. Disclosure to federal government agencies is also prohibited, unless authorized by FERPA, required by federal law, or in response to a subpoena or court order.
- Requires that governing boards of agencies or institutions may only designate directory information in accordance with FERPA at a regularly scheduled meeting at which time the board must consider any potential risks to student privacy from such designation.
- Requires DOE to create a statewide process for assigning students identification numbers that are not SSNs, thereby phasing out the use of SSNs for that purpose.

This bill analysis is drafted to the committee substitute as passed by the Choice & Innovation Subcommittee.

On March 6, 2014, the Education Committee adopted one amendment and reported CS/HB 195 favorably as a committee substitute. The amendment revised the title of newly created s. 1002.22, F.S., to clarify that this section contains both prohibitions on the collection of certain student information, as well as limitations on disclosure of certain student information. Before the amendment, the title of this section only referenced the limitations on disclosure.

This bill analysis is drafted to the committee substitute as passed by the Education Committee.
