COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Technical Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 152 requires district school boards to annually provide disability history and awareness instruction in all K-12 public schools, during the first 2 weeks in October, beginning with the 2016-2017 school year. The required disability awareness instruction must be integrated into the existing school curriculum and be augmented by presentations from individuals who have a disability, who are approved by the school or school district, and who meet existing background screening requirements.

The bill requires each public school in Florida to establish a disability history and awareness advisory council and provides requirements for the council regarding membership, responsibilities, and frequency of annual meetings.

The district costs associated with the required disability awareness instruction would be paid from existing Florida Education Finance Program (FEFP) funds or other local sources. No additional state funds would be needed.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2015.

II. Present Situation:

According to the United States Census Bureau, one in five (19 percent or approximately 54 million) people living in the United States have a disability. Five percent of children between the age of 5 and 17 have a disability.¹

The 2008 Legislature authorized district school boards to designate the first two weeks in October as "Disability History and Awareness Weeks."² Florida law authorizes each district school board to provide disability history and awareness instruction to students in kindergarten through grade 12. The instruction may be integrated into the existing school curriculum, and the goals of the instruction must be to achieve better treatment for individuals with disabilities, encourage individuals with disabilities to develop increased self-esteem, and reaffirm the local, state, and federal commitment to the full inclusion in society of, and the equal opportunity for, all individuals with disabilities. Qualified school personnel or knowledgeable guest speakers may deliver disability history and awareness instruction.

To facilitate the implementation of the law, the Bureau of Exceptional Education and Student Services, within the Florida Department of Education (DOE), created a resource guide to help school districts promote Disability History and Awareness Weeks.³ The guide includes:

- Promotional ideas to help schools promote disability history and awareness;
- Fliers recognizing the contributions of various individuals with disabilities;
- Disability etiquette documents;
- Documents concerning "people first" language;
- A guide to differentiated instruction;
- A copy of "A Legislative History of Florida's Exceptional Student Education Program;" and
- A list of websites that contain a variety of games, activities, and lesson plans that can be integrated into a curriculum for students.⁴

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill requires district school boards to annually provide disability history and awareness instruction in all K-12 public schools beginning with the 2016-2017 school year, and requires each public school to create a new advisory council. Specifically, the bill establishes new instructional and advisory council requirements.

Disability History and Awareness Instruction

The bill requires disability history and awareness instruction to be provided during the first two weeks in October beginning with the 2016-2017 school year and specifies the following additional requirements be included in such instruction:

- Events and timelines of the services to, and civil rights of, individuals who had or have disabilities; and
- Contributions of specific individuals who had or have disabilities, including the contributions of national leaders.

Through this bill, instruction must be integrated into the existing school curriculum.

Additionally, the bill adds a new requirement that the instruction be augmented by presentations from individuals who:

- Have disabilities;
- Are approved as presenters by the school or school district; and
- Meet the background screening requirements regarding entering schools and interacting with children under current law.⁵

Disability History and Awareness Advisory Council

The bill requires each public school to create a disability history and awareness advisory council that specifically:

- Consists of seven members, including six teachers who are employed at the school and one individual with a disability from the local community.
- Performs, at a minimum, the following responsibilities:
 - Providing input to the public school regarding curriculum for disability history and awareness;
 - o Assisting with locating individuals with disabilities to make presentations at schools; and
 - Submitting an annual report by August 1, 2016, and each year thereafter, to the superintendent of the school district in which the public school is located. The annual report must, at a minimum, include recommendations and policy alternatives regarding the state of disability awareness at the public school.
- Meeting at least four times each year.

The bill takes effect July 1, 2015.
