SUMMARY ANALYSIS

CS/HB 833 passed the House on April 28, 2015, as CS/CS/SB 278. The bill provides certain statutory authority to the governing body of a municipality with a population of more than 400,000 that is located in a charter county as defined in s. 125.011(1), F.S. Specifically, the bill:

- Authorizes the governing body to levy up to a 0.475 mill ad valorem tax on the taxable value of real and personal property located in a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) to finance the DDA, which is a special district created to plan, coordinate, and assist in implementing, revitalizing, and redeveloping a specific downtown area of a city.
- Limits such DDA's millage as provided in s. 200.001(8)(d), F.S., which provides that dependent special district millage, when added to the millage of governing body to which it is dependent, shall not exceed the allowable maximum millage for that governing body.

The Revenue Estimating Conference has reviewed this bill and determined that it will have a negative insignificant fiscal impact on local government revenues.

The bill was approved by the Governor on May 21, 2015, ch. 2015-43, L.O.F., and will become effective on July 1, 2015.

I. SUBSTANTIVE INFORMATION

A. EFFECT OF CHANGES:

Background

Downtown Development Authorities (DDAs) are special districts<sup>1</sup> created to plan, coordinate, and assist in implementing, revitalizing, and redeveloping a specific downtown area of a city.<sup>2</sup> Florida currently has 14 active DDAs.<sup>3</sup>

In 1965 the Legislature, with the passage of Chapter 65-1090, Laws of Fla., first authorized DDAs to remediate blighted business areas, halt further deterioration, and revitalize the central business districts of the larger cities where those conditions exist.<sup>4</sup> Chapter 65-1090, Laws of Fla.:

- Authorized municipalities with a population over 250,000 to establish a DDA with certain enumerated powers.<sup>5</sup>
- Provided that DDAs would be governed by a five-member board appointed by the municipality's governing body and chaired by the municipality's mayor.<sup>6</sup>
- Authorized the DDA's governing body to levy up to a 0.5 mill ad valorem tax on all real and personal property in the downtown district.<sup>7</sup>

Chapter 65-1090, Laws of Fla., was enacted under the authority of the 1885 State Constitution. While still under the authority of the 1885 Constitution, using the authority in Chapter 65-1090, Laws of Fla., the City of Miami in 1967 created a DDA, which it authorized to levy an ad valorem tax.<sup>8</sup> Three other DDAs also were created prior to the 1968 Constitution, but they were created by special acts.<sup>9</sup> The City of Miami was the only municipality to create a DDA pursuant to Chapter 65-1090, Laws of Fla.

The 1885 State Constitution, with the exception of county school taxes and county school district taxes (ss. 8 and 10, Art. XII), did not limit the millage a county, municipality, or special district could levy for ad valorem taxes. The Florida Constitution of 1968 added a provision limiting the millage rate for municipalities to ten mills.<sup>10</sup> That same provision also prohibits most special districts from levying ad valorem taxes upon the assessed value of real estate and tangible personal property unless the millage is "approved by vote of the electors who are owners of freeholds therein not wholly exempt from taxation."<sup>11</sup> The 1968 Constitution additionally provides that "[t]ax millages authorized in . . . special districts, on the date this revision becomes effective, may be continued until reduced by law"<sup>12</sup> and that "[a]d valorem taxing power vested by law in special districts existing when this revision becomes effective shall not be abrogated by Section 9(b) of Article VII herein, but such powers, except to the extent necessary to pay outstanding debts may be restricted or withdrawn by law.”<sup>13</sup>

The 1968 State Constitution also granted cities and counties broad home rule authority, making general laws of local application, like Chapter 65-1090, Laws of Fla., obsolete.<sup>14</sup> For municipalities, in particular, as the Florida Supreme Court has explained, before the 1968 Constitution grant of home rule power, “municipalities were creatures of legislative grace [and, therefore,] were inherently powerless, absent a specific grant of power from the legislature[; t]he clear purpose of the 1968 revision . . . was to give the municipalities inherent power to meet municipal needs.”<sup>15</sup> Further, “[t]he legislature’s retained power is now one of limitation rather than one of grace, but it remains an all-pervasive power, nonetheless.”<sup>16</sup>

Accordingly, in 1971, the Legislature repealed many general laws of local application passed between 1921 and 1970, including Chapter 65-1090, Laws of Fla.<sup>17</sup> The Legislature declared that those repealed laws “shall become an ordinance of that municipality on the effective date of this act, subject to modification or repeal as are other ordinances.”<sup>18</sup> The Act became effective on May 12, 1971.<sup>19</sup>

The Code of Ordinances for the City of Miami continues to authorize up to a 0.5 mill ad valorem tax on all real and personal property in the downtown district, providing in pertinent part:

The city commission is authorized to levy an additional ad valorem tax on all real and personal property in the downtown district as described in this article, not exceeding one-half mill on the dollar valuation of such property, for the purpose of financing the operation of the downtown development authority. This levy of one-half mill per dollar ad valorem tax shall be in addition to the regular ad valorem taxes and special assessments for improvements imposed by the city commission.<sup>20</sup>

In 1999, the Legislature established by general law procedures by which the Miami DDA could alter, amend, or expand its boundaries.<sup>21</sup>

Litigation was filed challenging the legality of the ad valorem tax levied by the City of Miami’s DDA.<sup>22</sup>

In Milan Investment Group v. City of Miami, 50 So. 3d 662 (Fla. 3d DCA 2011), the court held that the statute of limitations had run to challenge the boundaries of Miami’s DDA. of a general non-voted millage, a municipal debt service millage, a general voted millage, and a dependent special district millage.<sup>24</sup>

Section 200.001(5), F.S., provides that dependent special district millage shall be that millage rate set by the governing body of a municipality, which shall be identified as to the area covered; as to the taxing authority to which the district is dependent; and as to whether authorized by a special act, authorized by a special act and approved by the electors, authorized pursuant to s. 15, Art. XII, Fla. Const., authorized by s. 125.01(1)(q), F.S., or otherwise authorized.

A dependent special district is any special district that meets at least one of the following criteria:

- The membership of its governing body is identical to that of the governing body of a single county or a single municipality.
- All members of its governing body are appointed by the governing body of a single county or a single municipality.
- During their unexpired terms, members of the special district's governing body are subject to removal at will by the governing body of a single county or a single municipality.
- The district has a budget that requires approval through an affirmative vote or can be vetoed by the governing body of a single county or a single municipality.<sup>25</sup>

In general, an independent special district is a special district that is not a dependent special district as defined above, or a district that includes more than one county unless the district lies wholly within the boundaries of a single municipality.<sup>26</sup> By statute, for the purpose of fixing millage, Miami DDA is treated as an independent special district.<sup>27</sup> The millage rate levied by the Miami DDA for the fiscal year beginning October 1, 2014, and ending September 30, 2015, is 0.4780 mills.<sup>28</sup>

Home-Rule Charter Counties

Section 125.011(1), F.S., defines a county as:

any county operating under a home rule charter adopted pursuant to ss. 10, 11, and 24, Art. VIII of the Constitution of 1885, as preserved by Art. VIII, s. 6(e) of the Constitution of 1968, which county, by resolution of its board of county commissioners, elects to exercise the powers herein conferred. Use of the word "county" within the above provisions shall include "board of county commissioners" of such county.

The local governments authorized to operate under a home rule charter by ss. 10, 11, and 24, Art. VIII of the Constitution of 1885, are the city of Key West and Monroe County,<sup>29</sup> Miami-Dade County,<sup>30</sup> and

Effect of the bill

The bill provides that the Legislature intends to encourage the revitalization of downtown areas within large municipalities where the societal ills associated with urban blight are more prevalent. However, in recognition of the broad home rule power exercise by charter counties, the provision only applies in certain counties. Specifically, the bill provides statutory authority to the governing body of a municipality with a population of more than 400,000 and located in a charter county as defined in s. 125.011(1), F.S. In particular, the bill authorizes the governing body to levy up to a 0.475 mill ad valorem tax on the taxable value of real and personal property in a DDA for the purpose of financing the DDA's operation. The bill limits the millage of such DDA's as provided in s. 200.001(8)(d), F.S. That statutory provision cross-references the definition of dependent special district and provides that dependent special district millage, when added to the governing body to which it is dependent, shall not exceed the allowable maximum millage for that governing body.
