SUMMARY ANALYSIS

CS/HB 1017 creates the “Department of Economic Opportunity Cybercrime Prevention Act.” The bill permits the Florida Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles to disclose to DEO, pursuant to an interagency agreement, images of licensees that it maintains, for the purpose of facilitating the validation of reemployment assistance claims by DEO and to assist DEO in the identification of fraudulent or false claims for benefits.

The bill modifies the disqualification period imposed on claimants who make false or fraudulent representations for the purpose of obtaining benefits. A claimant found to have committed fraud would be disqualified from benefits for up to one year after DEO discovers the false or fraudulent representation, as provided by current law. However, if the false or fraudulent representation is made in furtherance of any state or federal felony crime relating to identity theft or inappropriate use of personally identifying information, then the claimant would be disqualified from benefits for five years for the first such act; and 10 years for subsequent acts.

The bill amends the definition of “racketeering activity,” as it relates to Florida’s Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act, to include crimes that are chargeable as reemployment assistance fraud. Although current law includes the creation of fictitious employer schemes as “racketeering activity,” the bill would make each false statement or representation or failure to disclose a material fact a separate, prosecutable offense.

There is no impact on local government revenues. See FISCAL COMMENTS.

The bill provides that it takes effect upon becoming law.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Present Situation

Reemployment Assistance

The Federal-State Unemployment Insurance Program provides unemployment benefits to eligible workers who are unemployed through no-fault of their own (as determined under state law) and who meet the requirements of state law.¹ The program is administered as a partnership of the federal government and the states.² States are permitted to set benefit eligibility requirements, the amount and duration of benefits and the state tax structure, as long as state law does not conflict with the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (FUTA) or the Social Security Act requirements.³

Florida's unemployment insurance program was created by the Legislature in 1937,⁴ and rebranded as the "reemployment assistance" program in 2012.⁵ The Florida Department of Economic Opportunity (DEO) is responsible for administering Florida's reemployment assistance (RA) laws, primarily through its Division of Workforce Services (Division). The DEO contracts with the Florida Department of Revenue (DOR) to provide unemployment tax collection services.⁶

Collection of Taxes Associated with Reemployment Assistance

Individual states collect payroll taxes on a quarterly basis, which are used to pay benefits, while the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) collects an annual federal payroll tax under FUTA.⁷ FUTA collections go to the states for costs related to the administration of state unemployment insurance and job service programs. Additionally, FUTA pays one-half the cost of extended unemployment benefits (during periods of high unemployment) and provides for a fund from which states may borrow, if necessary, to pay benefits.⁸ The IRS charges each liable employer a federal unemployment tax of 6.0 percent.⁹ If, however, a state program meets the federal requirements and has no delinquent federal loans, employers are eligible for up to a 5.4 percent tax credit, making the net tax rate 0.6 percent.¹⁰

In Florida, RA benefits are financed solely through contributions by employers.¹¹ The calculation for determining each employer's tax rate is statutorily set, and takes into consideration an employer's "experience," the balance of the Unemployment Compensation Trust Fund (UCTF), and other factors. The employer's experience rating is based on the employer's own employment records,¹² and serves to stabilize the UCTF, as well as ensure that all employers pay their fair share based on their own experience rating. An employer's tax rate is adjusted annually, and may vary from the maximum rate of 5.4 percent to the minimum rate, which varies each year based on adjustment factors.¹³

Recovery of Overpayments for Non-Fraudulent Claims

State laws generally differ in their identification, establishment, and collection of overpayments. Like most states, Florida's recovery of non-fraudulent overpayments includes several options, such as age garnishment, deducting any outstanding balance from future unemployment benefits or lottery winnings, and forwarding any unpaid balance to a contracted debt collection agency.¹⁴

Upon discovering an overpayment, DEO makes a determination of the amount of overpayment and attempts to make recovery of the overpayment. However, DEO must obtain a final judgment through the civil court system before it may utilize the wage garnishment process provided for in ch. 77, F.S.¹⁵ Interest is not assessed, unless and until a civil judgement is entered. For both fraudulent and non-fraudulent cases, the commencement of collections must be initiated within seven years.¹⁶

Fraudulent Claims

When an unemployed individual files a claim for unemployment assistance,¹⁷ DEO validates their identity based on daily cross matches with external entities, obtained through inter-agency agreements.¹⁸ A cross match with the Social Security Administration (SSA) is conducted for all new claims to establish that the social security number used to file a claim is the number assigned to that individual. To further validate identity, a secondary cross match is conducted against the driver license records maintained by the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles (HSMV). Because DEO does not have access to the full databases of these external partners, DEO must complete additional verification procedures when exceptions occur.¹⁹ The Fraud Initiative and Rules Rating Engine (FIRRE) unit, within DEO, uses specially-developed "algorithms to identify falsely filed claims and block them from receiving benefits."²⁰ In its first year of operation, FIRRE identified nearly 70,000 fraudulent claims.²¹

In addition to recovery of overpayments, a case in which fraud is established subjects the claimant to disqualification from receiving benefits for up to one year from the date DEO discovers the false or fraudulent representation, and until the overpayment has been repaid in full.²² Additionally, DEO may refer the case to the state attorney for prosecution as a third degree felony.²³

The duration of disqualification for fraud in other states is comparable to Florida's, with the majority of states setting it at 52 weeks. Some states further penalize subsequent offenses, such as Alabama which provides a 104 week disqualification for second and subsequent offenses, or Maine which penalizes a third offense with a disqualification to be set by the commissioner of the state RA program. Kansas appears to have the strictest duration of disqualification, which it sets at the latter of five years after commission of the fraudulent act, or after the first day following the last week for which benefits were paid. No states have imposed, in law, a lifetime disqualification.²⁴

²³ Section 443.071, F.S. makes it a third degree felony to make "a false statement or representation, knowing it to be false, or knowingly fails to disclose a material fact to obtain or increase any benefits or other payment..."

²⁴ Information for this paragraph is summarized from tables by the US Dept. of Labor. Supra note 14.

Identity Fraud

Chapter 817, F.S., prohibits and punishes various fraudulent acts or practices. In general terms, fraud is the willful act of misrepresenting the truth to someone or concealing an important fact from them for the purpose of inducing that person to act to his or her detriment.²⁵ Identity fraud, which is also known as identity theft, is a criminal act that occurs when a person illegally obtains someone else's personal information and uses that information to commit fraud or theft.²⁶ According to the Federal Trade Commission's most recent Consumer Sentinel Network Data Book, "Florida is the state with the highest per capita rate of reported identity theft complaints...."²⁷ Identity thieves often take names, Social Security numbers (coupled with birth dates), bank account and credit card numbers, and passwords to obtain credit and credit cards, drain money from bank accounts, establish new accounts, apply for loans using the victims' names, and commit other crimes to enrich themselves.²⁸

Racketeering

Section 895.02, F.S., defines a racketeering activity to include the creation of fictitious employer schemes, by reference to s. 443.071(4), F.S. However, the definition of racketeering does not encompass employment benefit fraud, a third degree felony. Instead, s. 443.071(1), F.S., makes employment benefit fraud punishable by a possible combination of penalties, fines, and mandatory minimum prison terms set out in ss. 775.082-084, F.S.

DEO has stated that increased amounts of fraudulent claims have their origin in "organized criminal enterprises... attacking public-benefit systems."²⁹ When benefits are obtained by an individual who is using a stolen identity to obtain benefits, DEO cannot investigate the individual making the fraudulent claim, but instead refers such cases to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the Inspector General of the U.S. Department of Labor.³⁰

Effect of Proposed Changes

The bill creates the "Department of Economic Opportunity Cybercrimes Prevention Act."

In order to facilitate the validation of reemployment assistance claims by DEO and to assist DEO in the identification of fraudulent or false claims for benefits, the bill authorizes HSMV to disclose images and signatures of licensees to DEO, pursuant to an interagency agreement. The images and signatures of licensees maintained by HSMV are not public records and are exempt from the provisions of s. 119.07(1), F.S.

The bill modifies the duration of disqualification for reemployment assistance benefits obtained by false or fraudulent representation. A claimant found to have committed fraud, continues to be subject to a disqualification from benefits for up to one year after the date DEO discovers the false or fraudulent representation was made. However, a claimant making a false or fraudulent representation, in furtherance of any state or federal felony crime relating to identity theft or inappropriate use of personally identifying information would be subject to:

- Five years disqualification from unemployment benefits for the first such act; and
- 10 years disqualification from unemployment benefits for subsequent acts.

³⁰ DEO analysis, 2016 Agency Legislative Bill Analysis, HB 1017 (Jan. 7, 2016).

The bill amends the definition of “racketeering activity,” as it relates to Florida’s Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act, to include crimes that are chargeable as reemployment assistance fraud. Although current law includes the creation of fictitious employer schemes as “racketeering activity,” the bill would make each false statement or representation or failure to disclose a material fact a separate, prosecutable offense.

Lastly, the bill provides that it becomes effective upon becoming law.
