SUMMARY ANALYSIS

Direct primary care (DPC) is a primary care medical practice model that eliminates third party payers from the primary care provider-patient relationship. Through a contractual agreement, a patient pays a monthly fee, usually between $25 and $100 per individual, to the primary care provider for defined primary care services. After paying the fee, a patient can utilize all services under the agreement at no extra charge. Some DPC practices also include routine preventative services, women's health services, pediatric care, urgent care, wellness education, chronic disease management, and home visits. The Office of Insurance Regulation does not currently regulate DPC agreements.

CS/CS/HB 37 provides that a direct primary care agreement (agreement) and the act of entering into such an agreement are not insurance and not subject to regulation under the Florida Insurance Code (Code), including chapter 636, F.S. The bill also exempts a primary care provider, which includes a primary care group practice, or his or her agent, from any certification or licensure requirements in the Code for marketing, selling, or offering to sell an agreement. An agreement must:

- Be in writing;
- Be signed by the primary care provider, or his or her agent, and the patient, or the patient's legal representative;
- Allow either party to terminate the agreement by written notice followed by, at least, a 30 day waiting period;
- Allow immediate termination of the agreement for a violation of physician-patient relationship or a breach of the terms of the agreement;
- Describe the scope of services that are covered by the monthly fee;
- Specify the monthly fee and any fees for services not covered under the agreement;
- Specify the duration of the agreement and any automatic renewal provisions;
- Provide for a refund to the patient of monthly fees paid in advance if the primary care provider stops offering primary care services for any reason;
- State that the agreement is not health insurance and that the primary care provider will not file any claims against the patient's health insurance policy or plan for reimbursement for any primary care services covered by the agreement; and
- State that the agreement does not qualify as minimum essential coverage to satisfy the individual responsibility provision of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act.

The Revenue Estimating Conference has determined that the bill may have either no impact or a negative indeterminate impact on state General Revenue, reflecting uncertainty about whether DPC agreements would be subject to insurance premiums tax in the future under current law.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2016.

This document does not reflect the intent or official position of the bill sponsor or House of Representatives.

The Life and Health Unit (Unit) of OIR provides financial oversight of health insurers, health maintenance organizations, and other regulated entities providing health care coverage. The Unit also reviews and approves some health care coverage products offered in the state. The following chart shows the type and number of each entity in the state:¹

Authority Category	Authorities
Health Insurers	442
Third Party Administrators	299
Continuing Care Retirement Communities	63
Discount Medical Plan Organizations	42
Health Maintenance Organizations	35
Fraternal Benefit Societies	36
Prepaid Limited Health Service Organizations/Prepaid Health Clinics	27

Direct Primary Care

Direct primary care (DPC) is a primary care medical practice model that eliminates third party payers from the primary care provider-patient relationship. Through a contractual agreement, a patient pays a monthly fee, usually between $50 and $100 per individual,² to the primary care provider for defined primary care services. These primary care services may include:

¹ Email correspondence from OIR staff dated November 12, 2015 (on file with Health and Human Services Committee staff).

² A recent study of 141 DPC practices found the average monthly fee to be $77.38. Philip M. Eskew and Kathleen Klink, Direct Primary Care: Practice Distribution and Cost Across the Nation, Journal of the Amer. Bd. of Family Med., November-December 2015, Vol. 28 No. 6, pg. 797; approximately two thirds of DPC practices charge less than $135 per month. - Office visits;
- Annual physical examination;
- Routine laboratory tests;
- Vaccinations;
- Wound care,³
- Splinting or casting of fractured or broken bones;
- Other routine testing, e.g. echocardiogram and colon cancer screening; or
- Other medically necessary primary care procedures.

After paying the fee, a patient can access all services under the agreement at no extra charge. Some DPC practices also include routine preventative services, like laboratory tests, mammograms, Pap screenings, vaccinations, and home visits.⁴ A primary care provider DPC model can be designed to address the large majority of health care issues, including women's health services, pediatric care, urgent care, wellness education, and chronic disease management.

In the DPC practice model, the primary care provider eliminates practice overhead costs associated with filing claims, coding, refiling claims, write-offs, appealing denials, and employing billing staff. The cost and time savings can be reinvested in the practice, allowing more time with patients to address their primary care needs.

The following chart illustrates the concentration of DPC practices in the United States.⁵

Direct Primary Care Practice Distribution

There are an estimated 4,400 direct primary care physicians nationwide, up from 756 in 2010.⁶

As of July 2015, thirteen states have approved legislation which defines DPC agreements or services as outside the scope of state regulation⁷, including:

Florida statutes do not specifically address DPC agreements, and OIR has not asserted regulatory authority over them. There is uncertainty about whether OIR might assert such authority in the future. In the event that OIR found that DPC agreements constitute insurance plans subject to regulation under the Insurance Code, the agreements could be subject to the insurance premium tax.

DPC and Health Care Reform

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA)⁸ addresses the DPC practice model. The individual responsibility provision of PPACA requires individuals to obtain health insurance coverage that meets minimum essential coverage standards in the law. Failure to do so results in tax penalties. Direct primary care arrangements alone do not constitute minimum essential coverage because they do not cover catastrophic medical events. A qualified health plan under PPACA is permitted to offer coverage through a DPC medical home plan if it provides essential health benefits and meets all other criteria in the law.⁹ Patients who are enrolled in a DPC medical home plan may be compliant with the individual mandate if they have coverage for other services, such as a wraparound catastrophic health policy to cover treatment for serious illnesses, like cancer, or severe injuries that require lengthy hospital stays and rehabilitation.¹⁰ In Colorado and Washington, qualified health plans are offering DPC medical home coverage on each state-based health insurance exchange.¹¹

Effect of Proposed Changes

CS/CS/HB 37 provides that a direct primary care agreement is not insurance and entering into such an agreement is not the business of insurance. It exempts both the agreement and the activity from the Code, including chapter 636, F.S. Through the exemption, the bill eliminates any authority of OIR to regulate a direct primary care agreement or entering into such an agreement. The bill also exempts a primary care provider, or his or her agent, from certification or licensing requirements under the Code to market, sell, or offer to sell a direct primary care agreement.

The bill requires a direct primary care agreement to:

- Allow either party to terminate the agreement by written notice followed by, at least, a 30 day waiting period;
- Allow immediate termination of the agreement for a violation of physician-patient relationship or a breach of the terms of the agreement;
- Describe the scope of services that are covered by the monthly fee;

- Specify the duration of the agreement and any automatic renewal provisions;
- Provide for a refund to the patient of monthly fees paid in advance if the primary care provider stops offering primary care services for any reason;
- State that the agreement is not health insurance and that the primary care provider will not bill the patient's health insurance policy or plan for services covered under the agreement; and
- State that the agreement does not qualify as minimum essential coverage to satisfy the individual responsibility provision of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2016.

B. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1: Creates s. 624.27, F.S., relating to application of code as to direct primary care agreements.

Section 2: Provides an effective date of July 1, 2016.

II. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE GOVERNMENT:

1. Revenues:

On December 4, 2015, the Revenue Estimating Conference adopted an estimate of the impact of the bill. The bill is estimated to have either no impact or a negative, indeterminate impact to General Revenue, reflecting uncertainty about whether DPC agreements might be subject to regulation by OIR and thus subject to insurance premium tax under current law.

2. Expenditures:

None.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues:

None.

2. Expenditures:

None.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR:

The bill removes any regulatory uncertainty as to the status of a direct primary care agreement as insurance. Primary care providers may choose to invest in establishing direct primary care practices throughout the state to provide primary care services, which would increase access to such services, without concern of facing regulatory action by OIR.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

None.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

Not applicable. The bill does not appear to affect county or municipal governments.

2. Other:

None.

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

Not applicable.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

None.

IV. AMENDMENTS/ COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES

On January 14, 2016, the Finance and Tax Committee adopted two amendments and reported the bill favorably as a committee substitute. The first amendment added a requirement that a direct primary care agreement inform the patient that they would need to purchase a separate catastrophic coverage policy in order to avoid a federal income tax fine. The second amendment required at least 60 days after written notice of cancelation of the agreement before the cancelation would go into effect.

On January 27, 2016, the Health and Human Services Committee adopted two amendments and reported the bill favorably as a committee substitute. The amendments:

- Reduced from 60 days to 30 days the requisite written notice before a party may terminate a DPC agreement;
- Permitted a DPC agreement to provide for immediate termination due to violation of the physician-patient relationship or a breach of the terms of the agreement; and
- Removed the requirement that a DPC agreement advise a patient that he or she can avoid incurring an income tax penalty under PPACA if the DPC agreement is paired with a policy that otherwise provides minimum essential coverage.

The analysis is drafted to the committee substitute.
