SUMMARY ANALYSIS

The bill amends ch. 847, F.S., which currently addresses obscenity, child pornography, and other child exploitation offenses, to address the following issues:

- Morphed Child Pornography: The bill criminally prohibits persons in Florida from possessing, promoting, or transmitting morphed child pornography. "Morphing" refers to a process in which a computer user distorts or transforms one picture into another. While federal law currently prohibits morphed child pornography, Florida law does not.
- Computer Pornography and Transmission of Child Pornography: The bill provides that offenses relating to the possession and transmission of child pornography may be charged as separate offenses based upon each image of child pornography and other proscribed items. Currently, due to the fact that the statutory language establishing the offenses uses the modifier "any," rather than "a" or "an" before the term "image" and other proscribed items, Florida courts have held that separate offenses may not be charged. The bill also clarifies in conformity with a recent Florida Supreme Court decision that the sharing of child pornography via file servers is criminally prohibited.
- Reorganization of Child Exploitation Laws: Currently, ch. 847, F.S., entitled "Obscenity" contains numerous sections of law which criminalize possession of child pornography, transmission of child pornography through a computer, transmission of depictions to minors that are harmful, luring a child over the Internet for sexual conduct, and other related matters. Meanwhile, one section of law, which prohibits the direction or promotion of sexual performances by children and the possession of child pornography, is incongruously set forth in s. 827.071, F.S., in the chapter entitled "Child Abuse." To address this issue, the bill moves the provisions of s. 827.071, F.S., to ch. 847, F.S. Numerous other provisions of law that cite to s. 827.071, F.S., are also amended to conform with the bill's changes. The bill also renames ch. 847, F.S., as "Obscenity; Child Exploitation" so that the chapter title more accurately reflects its contents.

Finally, the bill creates s. 794.10, F.S., to authorize criminal justice agencies to issue subpoenas for investigations involving sexual offenses against children which require the recipient of the subpoena to maintain the existence and contents of the subpoena as confidential.

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference (CJIC) met on March 29, 2017, and determined the bill would have a positive significant impact on the need for prison beds. The bill may have an indeterminate fiscal impact on the state court system.

This bill provides an effective date of October 1, 2017.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Current Situation

Overview

Chapter 847, F.S., entitled “Obscenity,” contains a variety of provisions that proscribe offenses related to pornography and minors. As discussed below, this bill: creates new offenses in ch. 847, F.S., relating to morphed child pornography; repeals s. 827.071, F.S., relating to offenses for sexual performance by a child, and moves the contents of that section to ch. 847, F.S., so that it is logically organized with other related child pornography and exploitation offenses; amends the offenses of computer pornography and transmission of child pornography so that such offenses may be separately charged based on each advertisement, minor affected, image, data, recipient involved, etcetera, as applicable; amends the definition of “transmit” to clarify, in conformity with the Florida Supreme Court’s 2016 decision in Smith v. State, that the sharing of child pornography through file-sharing programs is prohibited; and renames ch. 847, F.S., as “Obscenity; Child Exploitation.” Finally, the bill creates a new section of law to authorize criminal justice agencies to issue subpoenas for investigations involving sexual offenses against children which require the recipient of the subpoena to maintain the existence and contents of the subpoena as confidential.

Morphed Child Pornography

“Morphing,” which refers to a process in which a computer user distorts or transforms one picture into another, is a relatively simple technique using inexpensive and readily available software. In recent years, individuals have started using this technique to create “morphed” child pornography, e.g., images depicting sexually explicit conduct in which an actual child’s head has been superimposed onto an adult’s body.

Federal Statutes and Case Law

Generally, the First Amendment does not protect child pornography. In New York v. Ferber,<sup>1</sup> the United States Supreme Court recognized that states have a compelling interest in safeguarding the physical and psychological well-being of minors and in preventing their sexual exploitation and abuse. The Court noted that it was “unlikely that visual depictions of children . . . lewdly exhibiting their genitals would often constitute an important and necessary part of a literary performance or scientific or educational work.”<sup>2</sup> Under these principles, states have constitutionally been able to criminalize the possession, distribution, etc., of child pornography. However, the constitutionality of criminalizing such acts is less clear when the images at issue are morphed pornography.

Child Pornography Prevention Action of 1996

Prior to 1996, federal law criminalized a variety of acts relating to child pornography.<sup>3</sup> At that time, the statutes described such material as images created using an actual minor.<sup>4</sup> In 1996, Congress passed the Child Pornography Prevention Action of 1996 (CPPA),<sup>5</sup> which created a definition of “child pornography” which for the first time criminalized acts relating to morphed child pornography. Under the CPPA, “child pornography” was defined as:

- (A) The production of such visual depiction involves the use of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct;
  - (B) Such visual depiction is, or appears to be, of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct (i.e., virtual child pornography – created without using an actual child);
  - (C) Such visual depiction has been created, adapted, or modified to appear that an identifiable minor<sup>7</sup> is engaging in sexually explicit conduct (i.e., morphed child pornography); or
  - (D) Such visual depiction is advertised, promoted, presented, described, or distributed in such a manner that conveys the impression that the material is or contains a visual depiction of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct.<sup>8</sup>

Case Law Following the Passage of the CPPA

In 2002, the United States Supreme Court decided Ashcroft v. Free Speech Coalition,<sup>9</sup> a case in which a California trade association for the adult-entertainment industry challenged section 2256(8)(B) of the CPPA as unconstitutionally overbroad. As noted above, section 2256(8)(B) made it a crime to possess or distribute images depicting sexually explicit conduct which could be created by using advanced computer imaging techniques to “create realistic images of children who do not exist” (i.e., virtual child pornography).<sup>10</sup> The Court held that the “speech” criminalized in the challenged provision of the CPPA violated the First Amendment since it extended the federal prohibition against child pornography to sexually explicit images that “appeared to” depict minors but were “produced without using any real children.”<sup>11</sup> The Court decided that “by prohibiting child pornography that did not depict an actual child,” section 2256(8)(B) of the CPPA “abridged the freedom to engage in a substantial amount of lawful speech” and was therefore overbroad and unconstitutional.<sup>12</sup>

While the Ashcroft decision did not specifically address the constitutionality of 18 U.S.C. 2256(8)(C) (prohibiting morphed child pornography), it did note, in dictum, that “[a]lthough morphed images may fall within the definition of virtual child pornography, they implicate the interests of real children...”<sup>13</sup> This suggests that the Ashcroft court would have deemed morphed child pornography as not protected by the First Amendment.<sup>14</sup>

Prosecutorial Remedies and Other Tools to end the Exploitation of Children Today Act

Congress attempted to remedy the constitutional issues raised in Ashcroft by passing the “Prosecutorial Remedies and Other Tools to end the Exploitation of Children Today Act” (Protect Act) in 2003.<sup>15</sup> The Protect Act, in part, narrowed the definition of “virtual” child pornography in section (8)(B)

<sup>6</sup> 18 U.S.C. §2256(2) (1996 ed.) defined the term “sexually explicit conduct” as actual or simulated sexual intercourse (including genital-genital, oral-genital, anal-genital, or oral-anal) whether between persons of the same or opposite sex; bestiality; masturbation; sadistic or masochistic abuse; or lascivious exhibition of the genitals or pubic area of any person.

<sup>7</sup> 18 U.S.C. §2556(9) (1996 ed.) defined the term “identifiable minor” as a person who is recognizable as an actual person by the person's face, likeness, or other distinguishing characteristic, such as a unique birthmark or other recognizable feature, and:

- Who was a minor at the time the visual depiction was created, adapted, or modified; or
- Whose image as a minor was used in creating, adapting, or modifying the visual depiction.

The term was not be construed to require proof of the actual identity of the identifiable minor.

of the CPPA to include virtual or computer-generated images that are “indistinguishable from” images of actual minors engaging in sexually explicit conduct.<sup>16</sup>

Notably, the definition of “morphed” child pornography contained in section 2256(8)(C) remained unchanged between the CPPA and the Protect Act.

Federal Case Law since the Passage of the Protect Act

To date, the federal statutes relating to morphed child pornography have been upheld.<sup>17</sup> In United States v. Bach,<sup>18</sup> the defendant was convicted of possessing morphed child pornography. The image at issue showed a young nude boy sitting in a tree, grinning, with his pelvis tilted upward, his legs opened wide, and a full erection.<sup>19</sup> The photograph of a well-known child entertainer’s head had been “skillfully inserted onto the photograph of the nude boy so that the resulting image appeared to be a nude picture of the child entertainer sitting in the tree.”<sup>20</sup> The defendant appealed arguing that his conviction was invalid because the definition of morphed child pornography violated the First Amendment. The United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit disagreed holding that morphed child pornography “implicate the interests of real children,” and creates a lasting record of an identifiable minor child seemingly engaged in sexually explicit activity.<sup>21</sup> However, the court noted that:

Although there may well be instances in which the application of § 2256(8)(C) violates the First Amendment, this is not such a case. The interests of real children are implicated in the image received by Bach showing a boy with the identifiable face of AC in a lascivious pose. This image involves the type of harm which can constitutionally be prosecuted under Free Speech Coalition and Ferber.<sup>22, 23</sup>

More recently, the United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit decided United States v. Anderson.<sup>24</sup> In Anderson, the defendant was charged with distribution of morphed child pornography relating to an image in which the face of a minor female was superimposed over the face of an adult female engaging in sex with an adult male.<sup>25</sup> The defendant moved to dismiss the charge, arguing that the definition of morphed child pornography was unconstitutionally overbroad.<sup>26</sup> The court noted that the image at issue was different than the one in Bach in that “no minor was sexually abused.”<sup>27</sup> However, the court held that because such images falsely portray identifiable children engaging in sexual activity, such images implicate the government’s compelling interest in protecting minors.<sup>28</sup> Using this reasoning, the court held that the definition of morphed child pornography was constitutional.

Florida Statutes

Florida law currently contains a variety of statutes that prohibit acts relating to child pornography. Currently, these statutes are found in two different chapters. A summary of these laws follows.

Section 827.071(4), F.S., makes it a second degree felony<sup>29</sup> for a person to possess with the intent to promote any photograph, motion picture, exhibition, show, representation, or other presentation which, in whole or in part, includes any sexual conduct by a child.<sup>30</sup>

Section 827.071(5), F.S., makes it a third degree felony<sup>31</sup> for any person to knowingly possess, control, or intentionally view<sup>32</sup> a photograph, motion picture, etc., which, in whole or in part, he or she knows to include any sexual conduct by a child.<sup>33</sup>

The following definitions apply to the above-described offenses:

- “Child” means any person under the age of 18 years;
- “Promote” means to procure, manufacture, issue, sell, give, provide, lend, mail, deliver, transfer, transmute, publish, distribute, circulate, disseminate, present, exhibit, or advertise or to offer or agree to do the same;
- “Sexual conduct” means actual or simulated sexual intercourse, deviate sexual intercourse, sexual bestiality, masturbation, or sadomasochistic abuse; actual lewd exhibition of the genitals; actual physical contact with a person’s clothed or unclothed genitals, pubic area, buttocks, or, if such person is a female, breast, with the intent to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of either party; or any act or conduct which constitutes sexual battery or simulates that sexual battery is being or will be committed; and
- “Simulated” means the explicit depiction of sexual conduct which creates the appearance of such conduct and which exhibits any uncovered portion of the breasts, genitals, or buttocks.<sup>34</sup>

Section 847.0137, F.S. – Transmitting Child Pornography

Section 847.0137, F.S., specifies that any person who knew or reasonably should have known that he or she was transmitting child pornography to another person commits a third degree felony.

The following definitions apply to the above-described offense:

- “Child pornography” means any image depicting a minor engaged in sexual conduct;
- “Minor” means any person under the age of 18 years;
- “Sexual conduct” means actual or simulated sexual intercourse, deviate sexual intercourse, sexual bestiality, masturbation, or sadomasochistic abuse; actual lewd exhibition of the genitals; actual physical contact with a person’s clothed or unclothed genitals, pubic area, buttocks, or, if such person is a female, breast with the intent to arouse or gratify the sexual desire of either party; or any act or conduct which constitutes sexual battery or simulates that sexual battery is being or will be committed; and
- “Simulated” means the explicit depiction of sexual conduct which creates the appearance of such conduct and which exhibits any uncovered portion of the breasts, genitals, or buttocks.<sup>35</sup>

Notably, the terms used in the above-described statutes do not specifically include morphed pornography.

Florida Case Law

In 2010, Florida’s Second DCA decided Stelmack v. State,<sup>36</sup> a case in which the defendant was charged with violating s. 827.071(5), F.S. (possession of child pornography). The images at issue

<sup>29</sup> A second degree felony is punishable by up to 15 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine. ss. 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

<sup>30</sup> Possession of three or more copies of such photographs, etc., is prima facie evidence of intent to promote.

<sup>31</sup> A third degree felony is punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine. ss. 775.082 and 775.083, F.S.

<sup>32</sup> Section 827.071(1)(b), F.S., defines “intentionally view” as to deliberately, purposefully, and voluntarily view. Proof of intentional viewing requires establishing more than a single image, motion picture, exhibition, show, image, data, computer depiction, representation, or other presentation over any period of time.

<sup>33</sup> The statute also specifies that the possession, control, or intentional viewing of each such photograph, etc., is a separate offense. If such photograph, etc., includes sexual conduct by more than one child, then each child in each photograph, etc., that is knowingly possessed, controlled, or intentionally viewed is a separate offense.

showed the faces and heads of two girls, ages 11 and 12, which were cut and pasted onto images of a 19-year old woman lewdly exhibiting her genitals.<sup>37</sup> The court closely examined the definition of “sexual conduct,” and determined that it requires images to include actual lewd exhibition of the genitals by a child.<sup>38</sup> Because the only sexual conduct in the images at issue was performed by an adult, the court held that the images were not prohibited by s. 827.071(5), F.S.<sup>39</sup>

The court also noted that the images depicted simulated lewd exhibition of the genitals by a child. The state, citing the Bach decision, discussed supra, argued that s. 827.071(5), F.S., proscribed such images because they were photographs or representations “which ... in part ... include ... sexual conduct by a child.”<sup>40</sup> The court disagreed and noted that the legislature specifically excluded simulated lewd exhibition from the definition of “sexual conduct.” In discussing this point, the court stated:

We do not mean to suggest that the possession of composite images of real children that simulate lewd and lascivious exhibition of the children’s genitals should not be criminalized. However, there is no indication in either the plain language of section 827.071(5) or its legislative history that the legislature intended to do so. If the legislature had intended to proscribe the possession of composite images that simulate lewd and lascivious exhibition of the genitals, it could have included a provision doing so.<sup>41</sup> In fact, child pornography has been defined in the federal statutes to specifically include composite images...<sup>42</sup>

Shortly after the Stelmack decision, the Second DCA reviewed another case in which the defendant was convicted of possessing child pornography in violation of s. 827.071(5), F.S.<sup>43</sup> In this case, the images at issue were morphed images in which photographs of children’s heads were pasted onto photographs of nude women engaged in sexual intercourse, deviate sexual intercourse, or masturbation. After extensively reviewing the definition of “sexual conduct” and the elements of the offense, the court reversed the lower court’s decision holding that “no child engaged in the sexual conduct” and that “no matter how one parses the words, section 827.071 requires that the depicted sexual conduct be that of a child.”<sup>44</sup>

In reversing the trial court’s decision, the Second DCA also reviewed the legislative history of the relevant federal statutes. The court noted that Congress had enacted child pornography legislation three times (in 1994, 1996, and 2003), each time broadening the definition of child pornography.<sup>45</sup> The latest iteration, the Protect Act, defines child pornography to include not only images of actual children engaged in sexually explicit conduct, but also images created by computer that are “indistinguishable” from images of actual minors engaging in such conduct and images that are created or modified to appear as though an identifiable minor was involved in the production of the depiction.<sup>46</sup> After noting that Congress specifically removed the defense that no actual minor was involved in the production of the depiction, the court stated that “if our legislature wants to follow Congress’s example and prohibit the possession of the types of photographs involved here, we are confident that it can, and perhaps should, craft an appropriate statute.”<sup>47</sup>

Effect of Bill

As noted above, s. 827.071, F.S., currently contains provisions relating to sexual performance by a child, as well as provisions relating to child pornography. The bill repeals this section of statute and moves all of its provisions to statutes in ch. 847, F.S., relating to obscenity and child pornography.

The bill moves the provisions of s. 827.071(2) and (3), F.S., relating to sexual performance by a child, to s. 847.003, F.S. The bill does not change the elements of these offenses.

The bill moves the provisions of s. 827.071(4) and (5), F.S., which criminalize the possession and promotion of child pornography, into s. 847.0137, F.S., and defines a variety of terms in accordance with federal law to include morphed images. For example:

- "Child pornography" is defined as a visual depiction of sexual conduct, where:
  - The production of such visual depiction involves the use of a minor engaging in sexual conduct; or
  - Such visual depiction has been created, adapted, or modified to appear that an identifiable minor is engaging in sexual conduct.

- "Identifiable minor" is defined as a person who is recognizable as an actual person by the person's face, likeness, or other distinguishing characteristic, such as a unique birthmark, or other recognizable feature and:
  - Who was a minor at the time the visual depiction was created, adapted, or modified; or
  - Whose image as a minor was used in creating, adapting, or modifying the visual depiction.

The bill further notes that proof of the actual identity of the identifiable minor is not required.

- "Visual depiction" is defined to include any photograph, picture, image, motion picture, film, video, representation, or computer or computer-generated image or picture, whether made or produced by electronic, mechanical, or other means. The term also includes undeveloped film and videotape, data stored on computer disk or by electronic means which is capable of conversion into a visual image, and data which is capable of conversion into a visual image that has been transmitted by any means, whether or not stored in a permanent format.

The bill expands the definition of "sexual conduct" applicable to all of ch. 847, F.S., to include "simulated" lewd exhibition of the genitals.

Cumulatively, the above-described changes make it a crime to possess, promote, and transmit morphed child pornography in Florida.

The bill also makes numerous conforming changes that reflect the repeal of s. 827.071, F.S., the creation of s. 847.003, F.S., and the expansion of s. 847.0137, F.S. To better clarify the contents of ch. 847, F.S., the bill also directs the Division of Law Revision and Information to rename the chapter as "Obscenity; Child Exploitation."

Computer Pornography and Transmission of Child Pornography

Computer Pornography

Section 847.0135, F.S., entitled the "Computer Pornography and Child Exploitation Prevention Act," provides in relevant part that a person who:

- (a) Knowingly compiles, enters into, or transmits by use of computer;
- (b) Makes, prints, publishes, or reproduces by other computerized means;
- (c) Knowingly causes or allows to be entered into or transmitted by use of computer; or
- (d) Buys, sells, receives, exchanges, or disseminates,

any notice, statement, or advertisement of any minor's name, telephone number, place of residence, physical characteristics, or other descriptive or identifying information for purposes of facilitating, encouraging, offering, or soliciting sexual conduct of or with any minor,<sup>48</sup> or the visual depiction of such conduct, commits a felony of the third degree....<sup>49, 50</sup>

Transmission of Child Pornography

As discussed above, s. 847.0137, F.S., provides that any person in:

- This state who knew or reasonably should have known that he or she was transmitting child pornography<sup>51</sup> to another person in this state or in another jurisdiction commits a felony of the third degree.<sup>52</sup>
- Any jurisdiction other than this state who knew or reasonably should have known that he or she was transmitting child pornography to any person in this state commits a felony of the third degree.<sup>53</sup>

For purposes of these offenses, the term “transmit” is defined as “the act of sending and causing to be delivered any image, information, or data from one or more persons or places to one or more other persons or places over or through any medium, including the Internet, by use of any electronic equipment or device.”<sup>54, 55</sup>

Charging of Computer Pornography and Transmission of Child Pornography – Number of Counts

In 2015, the Fourth District Court of Appeal (DCA) in State v. Losada, considered the number of counts that may be charged for the offenses of computer pornography under s. 847.0135(2), F.S., and transmission of child pornography under s. 847.0137(2), F.S., where more than one image of child pornography is at issue.<sup>56</sup>

In this case, the defendant sent an undercover police officer a single image containing child pornography through an online chat. On a subsequent day, the officer requested and received from the defendant access to files stored on the defendant’s computer which contained 32 images of child pornography. Defendant was charged with and convicted of 33 counts of computer pornography in violation of s. 847.0135(2), F.S., and 33 counts of transmission of child pornography in violation of s. 847.0137(2), F.S. The defendant appealed his convictions, arguing, in relevant part, that he could not be prosecuted for 33 counts of each offense because the Legislature did not intend for these offenses to be charged on an image-by-image basis.<sup>57</sup>

The court agreed with the defendant and affirmed the trial court’s dismissal of 31 counts of computer pornography and 31 counts of transmission of child pornography. According to the court, such dismissal was warranted based on the Florida Supreme Court’s “a/any” test which holds that use of the word “a” before an item described in a statute evidences the intent of the Legislature to make each item

<sup>48</sup> “Minor” is defined to mean “any person under the age of 18 years.” s. 847.001(8), F.S. (emphasis added).

<sup>55</sup> The section further specifies that it may not be construed to prohibit prosecution of the transmission of child pornography under any other law, including a law providing for greater penalties; that a person is subject to prosecution in Florida if he or she lives outside of Florida if he or she violates the prohibition against transmitting child pornography to any person in this state; and that the section does not apply to subscription-based transmissions such as list servers. s. 847.0137, F.S.

subject to a separate prosecution; whereas, use of the word “any” before the item, is ambiguous and may evidence legislative intent that only one prosecution is intended for multiple items.<sup>58</sup>

With respect to the statutes at issue in the case, the computer pornography offense applies to “any notice, statement, or advertisement” of specified information relating to a minor’s name and the transmission of child pornography offense applies to the transmission, meaning, “the act of sending and causing to be delivered any image, information, or data ...,” of child pornography, meaning “any image depicting a minor engaged in sexual conduct.” Due to the use of “any” in these provisions, the court concluded that the Legislature did not intend to make each individual image subject to separate prosecution.<sup>59</sup>

Transmission of Child Pornography via File-Sharing Programs

Recently, the Florida Supreme Court (FSC) resolved a conflict between two District Courts of Appeal (DCAs) that considered whether the definition of “transmit” as used in s. 847.0137, F.S., to prohibit the transmission of child pornography includes transmission via a file-sharing program. According to the Fifth DCA in Biller v. State, the definition did not;<sup>60</sup> whereas, the Fourth DCA in Smith v. State,<sup>61</sup> found that a file-sharing program could be used to transmit child pornography in violation of s. 847.0137, F.S.

In Biller, the defendant used a peer-to-peer sharing network known as Limewire to download pornographic images of children to his home computer. The files were obtained from other Limewire subscribers who permitted access to their files. Using Limewire, sheriff’s agents retrieved the images from an accessible folder in the defendant’s computer. Based on the retrieval of these images, the defendant was, in relevant part, charged with and convicted of one count of transmitting child pornography using an electronic device in violation of s. 847.0137(2), F.S.<sup>62</sup>

The Fifth DCA reversed the defendant’s conviction determining that the child pornography had not been transmitted in violation of the statute because the definition of “transmit” requires a violator to “send” the files to another person. According to the court, “send” could mean that the defendant purposefully acted to deliver the files or that the defendant effectively sent them by maintaining a shared folder and knowingly allowing other Limewire users to access them. As the statute was susceptible to more than one construction, the court held that it was required under s. 775.021, F.S.,<sup>63</sup> to construe the statute most favorable to the defendant.<sup>64</sup>

Conversely, the Fourth DCA in Smith v. State,<sup>65</sup> found that a file-sharing program could be used to transmit child pornography in violation of s. 847.0137, F.S. In this case, the defendant used a file-sharing program that was designed to allow one-on-one access to stored data. The defendant loaded pornographic images into a specific computer file. Authorization was required to gain access to it. The defendant then sent a “friend request” to a Palm Beach County undercover detective which authorized the detective to access certain of Smith’s files that he had chosen to share with other users. The detective downloaded various images of child pornography from these files. Apart from the “friend request,” the defendant did not know that the files were actually downloaded. Ultimately, the defendant was convicted of 20 counts of transmitting child pornography.<sup>66</sup>

After the defendant’s conviction, the Fifth District decided Biller, infra. Based on Biller, the defendant filed a motion for postconviction relief, claiming in part that he had been convicted of a non-existent

<sup>63</sup> Section 775.021(1), F.S., states “The provisions of this code and offenses defined by other statutes shall be strictly construed; when the language is susceptible of differing constructions, it shall be construed most favorably to the accused.”

crime because he had not “sent” the images to the undercover detective. The Fourth DCA rejected this argument and affirmed the trial court’s order denying defendant’s motion. According to the court, “when the originator creates the shared file folder and specifically authorizes others to download the contents of that folder, he is ‘sending’ information in the form of the ‘friend’ request and is ‘causing’ the pornographic images to be delivered to another.”<sup>67</sup> Further, the court certified conflict with Biller.<sup>68</sup>

The FSC resolved the conflict in Smith v. State, rejecting the Fifth DCA’s decision in Biller and affirming the Fourth DCA’s decision in Smith. The FSC held “that the use of a file-sharing program, where the originator affirmatively grants the receiver access to child pornography placed by the originator in files accessible through the file-sharing program, constitutes the transmission of child pornography under the plain meaning of s. 847.0137, F.S.”<sup>69</sup> The court reasoned that by sending the friend request to the third party, the defendant purposefully “caused the delivery of the images to the third party to take place.”<sup>70</sup>

Effect of the Bill

The bill amends ss. 847.001, F.S., to change the definition of the term:

- “Child pornography” from “any image depicting a minor ...” to a cross-reference to the definition of “child pornography” created by the bill in s. 847.0137, F.S., which refers to “a visual depiction of sexual conduct” involving the use of “a minor ....”
- “Minor” or “child” from “any person under the age of 18...” to “a person under the age of 18....”

Likewise, the bill also amends ss. 847.0135 and 847.0137, F.S., to change the term “any” to “an” where used in the provisions creating the computer pornography and transmission of child pornography offenses. Cumulatively, these amendments result in the ability to charge: computer pornography offenses separately based upon each notice, statement, or advertisement and each minor affected; and transmission of child pornography offenses separately based upon each image, data, or information and each recipient.

With respect to the definition of “transmit” set forth in s. 847.0137(1), F.S., the bill:

- Adds language specifying that “transmit” includes “the act of providing access for receiving and causing to be delivered” visual depictions of child pornography; thereby, clarifying, in conformity with the Florida Supreme Court’s 2016 decision in Smith v. State, that the sharing of child pornography through file-sharing programs constitutes a prohibited transmission under the section.
- Deletes “from one or more persons or places to one or more other persons or places” as such verbiage is unneeded given that s. 847.0137(3), F.S., refers to the fact that the transmission must be sent to “another person” and “a person,” respectively.
- Adds “interconnected network” as an example of a medium over or through which child pornography may not be transmitted.

Subpoenas in Investigations Involving Sexual Offenses against Children

Subpoenas

A subpoena is an order directed to a person which requires his or her attendance at a particular time and place to testify as a witness. A subpoena may also require the witness to bring documents or other tangible evidence which may be introduced as evidence in a case.<sup>71</sup> The Sixth Amendment to the United States Constitution guarantees the defendant in a criminal case the right to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his or her favor.<sup>72</sup> Subpoenas may be issued in a criminal investigation<sup>73</sup> or in a criminal prosecution during discovery<sup>74</sup> or for trial<sup>75</sup> by the defendant, his or her counsel, or the state attorney. Generally, a subpoena must state the name of the court and the title of action and the time and the place at which the witness is commanded to give testimony or produce evidence.<sup>76</sup> Once a witness is subpoenaed by either party, he or she must remain available for attendance until the case is resolved or until he or she is excused by the court hearing the case.<sup>77</sup> A witness's failure to do so could result in being held in contempt of court.<sup>78</sup>

In some cases, a subpoena may require the recipient of the subpoena to not disclose the existence or contents of the subpoena. For example, Florida statute authorizes an agency that is investigating<sup>79</sup> a violation of Florida's Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act<sup>80</sup> to issue a civil investigative subpoena for testimony or documents.<sup>81</sup> This subpoena is confidential for 120 days, meaning the recipient of the subpoena may not disclose its contents or existence to any person or entity other than his or her attorney during that period.<sup>82</sup> The 120-day period may be extended by a circuit court upon showing of good cause by the investigative agency.<sup>83</sup> For good cause to exist, there must be a showing:

- Of sufficient factual grounds to reasonably indicate a violation of ss. 895.01 – 895.06, F.S.;
- That the documents or testimony requested appear reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence; and
- Of facts that reasonably indicate that disclosure of the subpoena would hamper or impede the investigation, or would result in a flight from prosecution.<sup>84</sup>

Upon failure of the person or enterprise to comply with the subpoena, the investigative agency may apply to the circuit court to enforce the subpoena.<sup>85</sup>

Similarly, federal law authorizes the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) to issue a National Security Letter (NSL), which is an administrative subpoena that allows the FBI to require records from wire or electronic communication service providers if the records are relevant to investigations related to terrorism or clandestine intelligence activities.<sup>86</sup> For such subpoenas, the FBI may require nondisclosure if the FBI certifies that disclosure may result in (i) a danger to the national security of the

The rule provides that the issuance of the subpoena for deposition is the same as provided for in the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure.

<sup>75</sup> Fla. R. Crim. P. 3361(a), provides that subpoenas for testimony before the court and subpoenas for production of tangible evidence before the court may be issued by the clerk of the court or by any attorney of record in the case.

Effect of the Bill

Definitions

The bill defines:

- "Child" as a person who is less than 18 years of age.
- "Criminal justice agency" as a law enforcement agency, court, or prosecutor in this state.
- "Sexual exploitation or abuse of a child" as a criminal offense based on any conduct described in s. 39.01(70), F.S. This definition includes sexual abuse of a child, engaging in sexual acts in front of or with a child, and engaging in human trafficking of a child.
- "Sexual offender" as a person who has been convicted of a sexual offense<sup>90</sup> against a child.

Issuing a Subpoena

Under the bill, a criminal justice agency is authorized to issue a subpoena for any investigation of an offense involving:

- The sexual exploitation or abuse of a child;
- A sexual offense alleged to have been committed by a sexual offender who has not properly registered; or
- An offense under ch. 847, F.S., involving a child that doesn't qualify under the first two prongs.

The subpoena may require the production of any relevant record, object, or other information relevant to the investigation and may also require the custodian of the record to testify as to its authenticity. The subpoena must identify and describe any record, object, or other information that is required to be produced or testified to and provide a reasonable return date by which the record, object, or information must be submitted.

Nondisclosure Requirement

The bill also allows a criminal justice agency to require that the recipient of the subpoena not disclose the existence or contents of the subpoena. In order for the subpoena to be subject to a nondisclosure requirement, it must be accompanied by a written certification that disclosure of the subpoena may result in one of the following circumstances:

- Endangering a person's life or physical safety;
- Encouraging a person's flight from prosecution;
- Destruction of or tampering with evidence;
- Intimidation of potential witnesses; or
- Otherwise seriously jeopardizing an investigation or unduly delaying a trial.

Upon such written certification, the recipient is prohibited from disclosing the contents or existence of the subpoena for 180 days, except that a recipient may disclose the subpoena and its contents to:

- A person to whom disclosure is necessary in order to comply with the subpoena;
- An attorney to obtain legal advice or assistance regarding the subpoena; or
- Any other person authorized by the state official issuing the subpoena.

A person to whom such disclosure is made is bound by the same nondisclosure requirements as the original recipient. A criminal justice agency may require the person disclosing the subpoena to provide the identity of the person to whom he or she is disclosing. If a person refuses to comply with the subpoena, the state official may request that the circuit court issue an order to comply. The circuit court may then issue an order, a violation of which may be punishable as contempt of court.

Petition Process and Judicial Review

The bill allows the person who receives the subpoena to challenge the requirements of the subpoena at any time before the return date by petitioning the circuit court of the county in which he or she lives. The bill also allows the subpoena recipient to challenge a nondisclosure requirement by filing a petition for judicial review in the circuit court or notifying the criminal justice agency that issued the subpoena. The petition may be for an order to modify or set aside the subpoena, or to modify or set aside the prohibition of disclosure of information.

Other Effects

Witnesses subpoenaed to testify are reimbursed for fees and mileage at the same rate at which witnesses Florida courts are reimbursed.<sup>91</sup> A subpoena issued under the bill must not require the production of anything that is protected from production with a subpoena duces tecum issued by a Florida court.<sup>92</sup>

The bill allows criminal justice agencies to require the production of documents as soon as possible, but the recipient of the subpoena must be given at least 24 hours after he or she is served to comply. The criminal justice agency must return any original documents or objects upon request, within a reasonable time, if prosecution does not occur.

The bill provides that the service of a subpoena under this section may be served as provided in ch. 48, F.S.

The bill provides immunity from civil liability for persons disclosing information requested in the subpoena. This allows persons with information needed by the criminal justice agency to disclose it without fear that the person being investigated may sue them for disclosing the information.

II. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE GOVERNMENT:

1. Revenues:

This bill does not appear to have any impact on state revenues.

2. Expenditures:

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference (CJIC) met on March 29, 2017, and determined the bill would have a positive significant impact on the need for prison beds<sup>93</sup>.

The bill's provisions authorizing judicial review of the subpoenas and nondisclosure requirements may increase judicial workload. The fiscal impact of such increase is indeterminate.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues:

The bill does not appear to have an impact on local government revenues.

2. Expenditures:

The bill may increase the number of defendants sentenced to local jails because the bill expands the definition of "sexual conduct," which expands the elements of misdemeanor offenses.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR: None.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS: None.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision: This bill appears to be exempt from the requirements of Article VII, section 18 of the Florida Constitution because it is a criminal law.

2. Other:

Although numerous First Amendment challenges have been made to government regulation of pornography, the United States Supreme Court has definitively ruled that the First Amendment does not attach to the dissemination of child pornography. "[T]he use of children as subjects of pornographic materials is harmful to the physiological, emotional, and mental health of the child. That judgment, we think, easily passes muster under the First Amendment."<sup>94</sup>

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY: This bill does not appear to create a need for rulemaking or rulemaking authority.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS: None.

IV. AMENDMENTS/ COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES

On April 3, 2017, the Justice Appropriations Subcommittee adopted two amendments and reported the bill favorably as a committee substitute (CS). The two amendments:

- Authorize criminal justice agencies to issue subpoenas for investigations involving sexual offenses against children which require the recipient of the subpoena to maintain the existence and contents of the subpoena as confidential.
- Prohibit sexual offenders and predators from being eligible for administrative probation.
