I. Summary:

SB 1142 revises the eligibility requirements that must be met for a person to seek a court-ordered expunction of a criminal history record.

Currently, a person is ineligible for a court-ordered expunction of a criminal history record that resulted in a trial, without regard to the outcome. The bill permits a person to obtain a court-ordered expunction of a criminal history record if the outcome at trial was a not guilty verdict.

Additionally, currently, a person seeking to expunge a criminal history record that resulted in a trial, without regard to the outcome, must have the record sealed for a minimum of 10 years prior to seeking an expunction of the record. The bill provides that a person seeking to expunge his or her criminal history record that resulted in a not guilty verdict at trial does not have to obtain a sealing of the record for a minimum of 10 years prior to seeking an expunction of the record.

The bill is effective July 1, 2018.

II. Present Situation:

Expunction of Criminal History Record

A criminal history record¹ is “any nonjudicial record maintained by a criminal justice agency containing criminal history information.”² Florida law³ makes adult criminal history records accessible to the public unless the record has been sealed or expunged.⁴ Sealed records are placed under highly restricted access,⁵ while expunged records are removed from record systems and destroyed.⁶ In addition to the court-ordered expungement process, Florida statutes authorize the following expungement processes:

- Administrative, for records of arrests determined to have been made contrary to law or by mistake;⁷
- Juvenile diversion for records of arrests of minors who complete a prearrest or postarrest diversion program;⁸
- Lawful self-defense, for records relating to a person who is later found to have acted in lawful self-defense;⁹
- Human trafficking, for records of offenses committed while the person was being victimized as part of a human trafficking scheme;¹⁰
- Automatic juvenile, for records of juvenile offenses as long as the person does not commit any serious offenses between age 18 and 26;¹¹ and
- Early juvenile, for records of juvenile offenses as long as the person does not commit any serious offenses between age 18 and 21.¹²

Court-Ordered Expunction of Criminal Record

A court may order a criminal history record of a minor or an adult to be expunged. A person is permitted to obtain one court-ordered expunction in their lifetime.¹³

To qualify for a court-ordered expunction, a person must first obtain a certificate of eligibility from the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) pursuant to requirements set forth in ss. 943.0585(2) or 943.0585(5), F.S. To obtain the certificate, a person must submit to the FDLE:

- A written, certified statement from the appropriate state attorney or statewide prosecutor which indicates:
 - An indictment, information, or other charging document was not filed or issued in the case.¹⁴
 - An indictment, information, or other charging document, if filed or issued in the case, was dismissed or nolle prosequi¹⁵ by the state attorney or statewide prosecutor, and that

- The criminal history record does not relate to certain violations.¹⁷
- A $75 processing fee, unless it is waived by the executive director.
- A certified copy of the disposition of the charge.¹⁸

In addition, the applicant must not:

- Prior to the date the application for a certificate of eligibility is filed, have been adjudicated guilty of a criminal offense or comparable ordinance violation, or been adjudicated delinquent for committing any felony or a misdemeanor specified in s. 943.051(3)(b), F.S.;¹⁹
- Have been adjudicated guilty of, or adjudicated delinquent for committing, any of the acts stemming from the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition to expunge pertains;
- Be under court supervision for the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition pertains; and
- Have secured a prior expunction or sealing of a criminal history record, unless the expunction sought is of a criminal history record previously sealed for 10 years pursuant to s. 943.0585(2)(h), F.S.²⁰

Section 943.0585(2)(h), F.S., provides that if an applicant's arrest or alleged criminal activity resulted in the withholding adjudication or a trial, the applicant's criminal history record must have been sealed for 10 years to be eligible for expunction. This sealing requirement does not apply, however, when a plea was not entered or all charges were dismissed prior to trial.²¹

Upon receipt of a certificate of eligibility for expunction, a person must then petition the court to expunge his or her criminal history record. Along with the certificate,²² the petition must include a sworn statement attesting that the petitioner:

- Has never been adjudicated guilty of a criminal offense or comparable ordinance violation, or been adjudicated delinquent for committing any felony or a specified misdemeanor;²³
- Has not been adjudicated guilty of, or adjudicated delinquent for committing, any of the acts stemming from the arrest or alleged criminal activity to which the petition pertains;

¹⁹ These offenses include assault, battery, carrying a concealed weapon, unlawful use of destructive devices or bombs, child neglect, assault or battery on a law enforcement officer, a firefighter, or other specified officer, open carrying of a weapon, indecent exposure, unlawful possession of a firearm, petit theft, animal cruelty, arson, and unlawful possession or discharge of a weapon or firearm at a school-sponsored event or on school property. See s. 943.051(3)(b), F.S.

- Has never secured a prior sealing or expunction of a criminal history record, unless the expunction is sought for a criminal history record previously sealed for 10 years pursuant to s. 943.0585(2)(h), F.S. (above), and the record is otherwise eligible for expunction; and
- Believes to the best of his or her knowledge that the record is eligible for such an expunction and does not have any other petition to expunge or seal pending before any court.²⁴

A copy of the completed petition is then served upon the appropriate state attorney or statewide prosecutor and the arresting agency, any of which may respond to the court regarding the petition.²⁵ There is no statutory right to a court-ordered expunction and any request for expunction of a criminal history record may be denied at the sole discretion of the court.²⁶

Effect of a Court-Ordered Criminal History Record Expunction

If the court grants a petition to expunge a criminal history record, the clerk of the court then certifies copies of the order to the appropriate state attorney and the arresting agency and any other agency that has received the criminal history record from the court. In turn, the arresting agency must provide the expunction order to any agencies to which it disseminated the applicant's criminal history record. The FDLE must provide the expunction order to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.²⁷

Upon receiving the court's expunction order, with the exception of FDLE, any criminal justice agency that has a copy of the applicant's criminal history record must physically destroy or obliterate the record. The FDLE is required to maintain the criminal history record to be used for certain types of background checks, generally involving employment in sensitive positions, such as becoming a member of The Florida Bar or law enforcement agency or working with the elderly or children.²⁸ However, the record is confidential and exempt from disclosure requirements under the public records laws. Only a court order can make the record available to a person or entity that is otherwise excluded.²⁹

A person who has his or her criminal history record expunged may lawfully deny or fail to acknowledge the record that was expunged, unless he or she is:

- A defendant in a criminal prosecution;
- Seeking appointment as a guardian, a position with a criminal justice agency, a license by the Division of Insurance Agent and Agency Services within the Department of Financial Services, or a position with an agency that is responsible for the protection of vulnerable persons, including children, the disabled, or the elderly;
- Petitioning to have a court-ordered criminal history record expunged or sealed or petitioning for relief under s. 943.0583, F.S.;³⁰ or

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Currently, a person is ineligible for a court-ordered expunction of a criminal history record if that person went to trial on the charges, regardless of whether the outcome of the trial was an acquittal. The bill repeals this prohibition and permits a person to seek a court-ordered expunction of a criminal history record involving a trial that resulted in a not guilty verdict, rendered by a judge or jury.

Additionally, current law requires that the criminal history record of a person who went to trial on the charges be sealed for a minimum of 10 years prior to seeking an expunction of the record. The bill amends this requirement and provides that if the trial results in a not guilty verdict, the 10-year sealing requirement does not apply.

The bill is effective July 1, 2018.

have this record sealed. The bill enables a person to seek the expunction of a criminal history record that resulted in a not guilty verdict at trial, and provides that a prior sealing is not required.

The FDLE estimates that this change will result in the submission of approximately 5,000 additional applications for a court-ordered expunction, which will require an additional full-time employee. The fiscal impact to accommodate for this increase in applications is projected to be $62,441 in year one and $58,686 in recurring years.³²

Despite FDLE's estimate, it is unclear whether the bill will lead to an increase in applications rather than a shift in the type of application submitted. The bill enables a person who was previously only eligible to have his or her criminal history record sealed to now be able to seek an expunction of a criminal history record without obtaining a prior sealing. It seems that this will result in such persons submitting an application for a court-ordered expunction, rather than a court-ordered sealing. As such, the bill might not result in a significant increase in applications.
