I. Summary:

SB 588 amends ss. 775.085 and 775.0863, F.S., Florida’s hate crimes statutes. Section 775.085, F.S., reclassifies the felony or misdemeanor degree of an offense if the commission of the offense evidences prejudice based on the race, color, ancestry, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, national origin, homeless status, or advanced age of the victim of the crime. Section 775.0863, F.S., is similar to s. 775.085, F.S., but only addresses hate crimes based on a victim’s mental or physical disability.

The bill specifies that a violation of ss. 775.085 or 775.0863, F.S., occurs if the commission of a crime evidences prejudice “in whole or in part” based on a characteristic of the victim of the crime specified in either statute.

The bill also expands s. 775.085, F.S., to include gender and gender identity as relevant victim characteristics. Therefore, a violation of s. 775.085, F.S., occurs if the commission of a crime evidences prejudice “in whole or in part” based on the gender or gender identity of the victim of the crime. The bill defines the term “gender identity.”

The bill also amends s. 775.0863, F.S., to remove reference to “mental or physical” in regard to the term “disability.” The bill repeals the current definition of “mental or physical disability” and provides a definition of “disability” that is more expansive than the current definition of “mental or physical disability.”

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference estimates the bill will have a “positive indeterminate” prison bed impact (an unquantifiable increase in prison beds). See Section V. Fiscal Impact Statement.

II. Present Situation:

Florida's Hate Crimes Laws

Section 775.085, F.S., reclassifies the felony or misdemeanor degree of an offense if the commission of the offense evidences prejudice based on the race, color, ancestry, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, national origin, homeless status, or advanced age of the victim.<sup>1</sup> Offenses are reclassified as follows:

- A second degree misdemeanor is reclassified to a first degree misdemeanor;
- A first degree misdemeanor is reclassified to a third degree felony;
- A third degree felony is reclassified to a second degree felony;
- A second degree felony is reclassified to a first degree felony; and
- A first degree felony is reclassified to a life felony.

Reclassification of the degree of an offense has the effect of increasing the maximum sentence that a judge may impose for the offense. The maximum sentence for:

- A second degree misdemeanor is 60 days in jail and a $500 fine;
- A first degree misdemeanor is 1 year in jail and a $1,000 fine;
- A third degree felony is 5 years in state prison and a $5,000 fine;
- A second degree felony is 15 years in state prison and a $10,000 fine;
- A first degree felony is generally 30 years in state prison and a $10,000 fine; and
- A life felony is generally a term of imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of years not exceeding life imprisonment and a $15,000 fine.<sup>2</sup>

Additionally, felony reclassification may impact the scored lowest permissible sentence under the Criminal Punishment Code. For example, a primary offense that is a second degree felony would typically score more sentence points than a primary offense that is a third degree felony.

Section 775.0863, F.S., is similar to s. 775.085, F.S., but only addresses hate crimes based on a victim's mental or physical disability. Section 775.0863(1)(b), F.S., defines the term "mental or physical disability" as a condition of mental or physical incapacitation due to a developmental disability, organic brain damage, or mental illness, and one or more mental or physical limitations that restrict a person's ability to perform the normal activities of daily living. The reclassification provisions of s. 775.0863, F.S., are identical to the reclassification provisions of s. 775.085, F.S.

<sup>1</sup> Section 775.0863, F.S., provides for reclassification of the felony or misdemeanor degree of an offense if the commission of the offense evidences prejudice based on the victim's mental or physical disability.

<sup>2</sup> Sections 775.082 and 775.083, F.S. However, if a defendant is sentenced for an offense that was committed on or after July 1, 2009, which is a third degree felony that is not a forcible felony, as defined in s. 776.08, F.S., and excluding a felony violation of ch. 810, F.S., and if total sentence points pursuant to s. 921.0014, F.S., are 22 points or fewer, the court must sentence the offender to a nonstate prison sanction unless it makes written findings that such sanction could present a danger to the public. Section 775.082(10), F.S.

According to the Florida jury instruction for ss. 775.085 and 775.0863, F.S.,<sup>3</sup> the jury should find a defendant guilty of the crime charged (or a lesser included crime) aggravated by the defendant intentionally selecting the victim based on prejudice if the jury finds that the defendant committed the crime charged (or lesser included crime) and also finds beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant:

- Perceived, knew, or had reasonable ground to perceive or know the victim’s race, color, ancestry, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, national origin, homeless status, mental or physical disability, or advanced age; and
- Intentionally selected the victim because of that perception or knowledge.<sup>4</sup>

Gender and Gender Identity

Laws may treat the terms “gender” and “sex” as interchangeable terms<sup>5</sup> and may only recognize a gender binary of “male” and “female.”<sup>6</sup> One court has described this gender binary as “an individual’s biological sex in the binary sense -either male or female- that is assigned at birth, as reflected on that individual’s birth certificate, and typically assigned on the basis of an individual’s genitalia.”<sup>7</sup>

“Increasingly in medicine and sociology, gender is distinguished from sex.”<sup>8</sup> For example, according to information provided by the American Psychological Association (APA), “[g]ender refers to the attitudes, feelings, and behaviors that a given culture associates with a person’s biological sex.”<sup>9</sup> In contrast, “[s]ex refers to a person’s biological status and is typically categorized as male, female, or intersex (i.e., atypical combinations of features that usually distinguish male from female). There are a number of indicators of biological sex, including sex chromosomes, gonads, internal reproductive organs, and external genitalia.”<sup>10</sup>

Sex is typically assigned at birth (or before [or] during ultrasound) based on the appearance of external genitalia. When the external genitalia are ambiguous other

<sup>4</sup> Proof that the defendant intentionally selected the victim is required by State v. Stalder, 630 So.2d 1072 (Fla. 1994). However, “[t]o qualify criminal conduct for sentencing enhancement under section 775.085, Stalder does not require that prejudice be the sole motivating factor for the underlying crime.” *State v. <sup>10</sup> Id. However, one legal commentator has noted that “the definition of intersex is shifting and changing alongside the corresponding shifts and changes in societal definitions of ‘male’ and ‘female.’ Intersex individuals have congenital anomalies of the reproductive and sexual system that bring into question their categorization as either male or female. Whether a given anomaly is sufficient to bring male or female categorization into question and whether the anomaly is required to introduce some combination of ‘male’ and ‘female’ characteristics into a single body are both disputed and socially determined questions. What is clear is that the intersex body fits the definition of neither a male nor a female body - and that it defies the gender binary so commonly assumed by individuals and the law.” Ilana Gelfman, “Because of Intersex: Intersexuality. indicators (e.g., internal genitalia, chromosomal and hormonal sex) are considered to assign a sex with the aim of assigning a sex that is most likely to be congruent with the child's gender identity.... For most people, gender identity is congruent with sex assigned at birth (see cisgender); for ... [transgender and gender-nonconforming] individuals, gender identity differs in varying degrees from sex assigned at birth.<sup>11</sup>

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill amends ss. 775.085 and 775.0863, F.S., Florida's hate crimes statutes. Section 775.085, F.S., reclassifies the felony or misdemeanor degree of an offense if the commission of the offense evidences prejudice based on the race, color, ancestry, ethnicity, religion, sexual orientation, national origin, homeless status, or advanced age of the victim of the crime. Section 775.0863, F.S., is similar to s. 775.085, F.S., but only addresses hate crimes based on a victim's mental or physical disability.

The bill also specifies that a violation of ss. 775.085 or 775.0863, F.S., occurs if the commission of a crime evidences prejudice "in whole or in part" based on a characteristic of the victim of the crime specified in either statute.

The bill also expands s. 775.085, F.S., to include gender and gender identity as relevant victim characteristics. Therefore, a violation of s. 775.085, F.S., occurs if the commission of a crime evidences prejudice "in whole or in part" based on the gender or gender identity of the victim of the crime. The bill defines the term "gender identity" as a person's gender-related identity, appearance, or behavior, regardless of whether such gender-related identity, appearance, or behavior is different from that traditionally associated with the person's physiology or assigned sex at birth.<sup>12</sup>

The bill also amends s. 775.0863, F.S., to remove reference to "mental or physical" in regard to the term "disability." The bill repeals the current definition of "mental or physical disability" and provides a definition of "disability." A "disability" is a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more of a person's major life activities. Several definitions in Florida

<sup>11</sup> Supra, n. 9. According to information from the American Psychological Association, "gender identity" refers to "[a] person's deeply-felt, inherent sense of being a boy, a man, or male; a girl, a woman, or female; or an alternative gender (e.g., genderqueer, gender nonconforming, gender neutral) that may or may not correspond to a person's sex assigned at birth or to a person's primary or secondary sex characteristics. Since gender identity is internal, a person's gender identity is not necessarily visible to others." Id.

<sup>12</sup> This definition is very similar to a definition of "gender identity or expression" in Connecticut law (CT Gen Stat s. 1-1n) and almost identical to a definition of "gender identity" in Massachusetts law (Mass. Gen. L. ch. 4, s. 7).

law incorporate similar language<sup>13</sup> as does the definition of “disability”<sup>14</sup> relevant to the Americans with Disabilities Act.<sup>15</sup>

This definition of “disability” is more expansive than the definition of “mental or physical disability” that is currently in s. 775.0863, F.S., which requires a condition of mental or physical incapacitation due to a developmental disability, organic brain damage, or mental illness. For example, a crime victim’s paralysis may not be covered by the current definition but appears to be covered by the amended definition in the bill if it substantially limits one or more of a person’s major life activities.

The bill also reenacts s. 921.002, F.S., the Criminal Punishment Code offense severity ranking chart, for the purpose of incorporating the amendments made by the bill to ss. 775.085 and 775.0863, F.S., in reference to those statutes.

The effective date of the bill July 1, 2018.

V. Fiscal Impact Statement:*A. Tax/Fee Issues:

None.

B. Private Sector Impact:

None.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The Criminal Justice Impact Conference (CJIC) estimates the bill will have a “positive indeterminate” prison bed impact (an unquantifiable increase in prison beds).<sup>16</sup>

The Legislature’s Office of Economic and Demographic Research (EDR) provided the following information relevant to the CJIC estimate:

There is currently no data available on whether crimes committed against persons evidenced prejudice based on their gender or gender identity. Nationwide, the Uniform Crime Reports (UCR) for 2016 note that there were 28 known offenders who committed offenses with Anti-Male/Anti-Female motivations. There were 165 known offenders who committed offenses with Anti-Transgender/Anti-Gender Non-Conforming motivations. However, it is unknown how many states currently have these laws. Per ... [the Florida Department of Law Enforcement’s (FDLE’s)] statewide UCR, in 2016, there were 124 offenses, with 34 arrests for hate crimes. There were 45 offenses motivated by sexual orientation, with 10 arrests, and one offense motivated by mental disability, with one arrest. Also per [the] FDLE’s Computerized Criminal History (CCH) files, in FY ... [2015-16], there were 7 arrests and 2 guilty/convicted for ... [first] degree misdemeanors under s. 775.085, F.S., with arrests possibly overlapping with UCR. There were no arrests under ... s. 775.0863, F.S., for evidencing prejudice during an offense against someone with a mental or physical disability. However, since these statutes reclassify felonies, such acts might not be captured in the initial arrest.<sup>17</sup>

VII. Related Issues:

According to information reported by the Anti-Defamation League in 2016, 31 states had a hate crime law that included gender as a crime victim characteristic and 18 states had a hate crime law that included gender identity as a crime victim characteristic.<sup>18</sup>

VIII. Statutes Affected:

This bill substantially amends the following sections of the Florida Statutes: 775.085 and 775.0863.
