II. Present Situation:

Florida Division of Emergency Management

The Florida Division of Emergency Management (FDEM) administers programs to rapidly apply all available aid to impacted communities stricken by emergency.¹ The FDEM is responsible for maintaining a comprehensive statewide program of emergency management to ensure that Florida is prepared to respond to emergencies, recover from them, and mitigate against their impacts. In doing so, the FDEM coordinates efforts with and among the federal government, other state agencies, local governments, school boards, and private agencies that have a role in emergency management.² The FDEM is organized by functional area to include the bureaus of Mitigation, Preparedness, Response, and Recovery.

State Emergency Response Team

The State Emergency Response Team (SERT) serves as the primary operational mechanism through which state assistance to local governments is managed.³ To facilitate effective operations, the SERT is organized into 18 groups called Emergency Support Functions (ESF).⁴ Each ESF focuses on a specific mission area and is led by a representative from the state agency that best reflects the authorities, resources, and capabilities of the ESF.

Emergency Support Function 12 – Fuels

The purpose of ESF 12 (Fuels) is to promulgate the policies and procedures to be used by partner agencies in responding to and recovering from shortages and disruptions in the supply and delivery of transportation fuels, electricity, natural gas, and other forms of energy and fuels that, impact or threaten, significant numbers of citizens and visitors. The primary agencies providing leadership to ESF 12 are the Public Service Commission and FDEM. Partner agencies in ESF 12 include, but are not limited to, the Florida Petroleum Council, Department of Transportation, Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, Department of Environmental Protection, and industry trade groups and associations.⁵

Operations in ESF 12 involve close coordination with private sector providers of energy and transportation fuels such as propane, fuel oil, diesel fuel, and gasoline. The FDEM is primarily responsible for monitoring and coordinating with private sector suppliers of such fuels to ensure that adequate supplies of other energy and transportation fuels are available and deliverable for normal community functioning.⁶ Energy planners from the FDEM Bureaus of Response and Preparedness work alongside ESF 12 prior to an emergency or disaster to develop and maintain plans and procedures to ensure an adequate supply of fuels to support emergency response and recovery operations.⁷
