COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE - Substantial Changes

I. Summary:

CS/SB 96 increases the penalty from a third degree felony to a second degree felony for intentionally and knowingly, without lawful cause or justification, causing great bodily harm, permanent disability, or death to, or using a deadly weapon upon, a police, fire, or search and rescue (SAR) canine, or a police horse. Additionally, the bill makes the corresponding changes to the offense severity ranking chart.

The bill also replaces the word “dog” with the word “canine” in ss. 767.16 and 843.19, F.S.

The Legislature’s Office of Economic and Demographic Research preliminarily estimates that the bill would result in a “positive insignificant” prison bed impact (10 or fewer prison beds). See Section V. Fiscal Impact Statement.

The bill is effective October 1, 2019.

II. Present Situation:

Law enforcement and fire department special K-9 and mounted units

Specially-trained dogs are used by various agencies and departments throughout the state in their K-9 units. In 2017, there were 140 police departments and 65 sheriff’s offices with active canine units.¹ These departments employ dogs to assist with tracking and apprehending offenders, narcotics and bomb detection,² and building and article searches.³ Additionally, some fire departments use dogs as part of arson detection programs.⁴ Various non-profit organizations also use dogs for the purpose of search and rescue, such as the Community Emergency Response Team, which provides support to the Federal Emergency Management Agency.⁵

Though not as frequently used as K-9 units, select law enforcement agencies throughout the state have mounted units,⁶ whereby specially-trained horses are used to assist with crowd control, special events, and additional patrol functions, among other tasks.⁷

Offenses against police animals

Intentional offenses against police animals most often occur while the animals are on duty. Because of this, offenses against police horses are infrequent because mounted units are most commonly used for non-crime related purposes. However, one instance of intentional harm occurred several years ago when an attendee at the Gasparilla parade in Tampa punched a horse that was used to patrol the event.⁸

In contrast, police dogs are frequently used in conjunction with high-intensity, criminal situations and are often deployed by their handlers to chase after fleeing felons. As a result, the dogs can be caught in the line of fire while on the job. Two recent incidents resulted in the death of a police dog while the dog was on duty. In September 2018, 3-year old Fang, a member of Jacksonville Sheriff's Office canine unit, was shot and killed by a teenager who was fleeing a scene after carjacking two women at a gas station minutes earlier.⁹ Similarly, in December 2018, Palm

Beach County Sheriff's Office's canine, 3-year-old Cigo, was shot and killed by an attempted murder suspect outside of a shopping mall.¹⁰

Protecting police animals from intentional harm

In an effort to deter intentional harm toward police animals, legislation aimed at creating stiffer penalties for those crimes has been introduced at both the federal and state level. In August 2000, Congress passed the Federal Law Enforcement Animal Protection Act of 2000, which made it a crime to willfully and maliciously harm a police animal, or attempt or conspire to do so, resulting in a penalty of imprisonment for up to one year. Additionally, permanently disabling or causing serious bodily injury or death to a police animal may result in a term of imprisonment of up to 10 years under the act.¹¹

Similar efforts to increase penalties for crimes against police animals have been attempted at the state level as well. In Utah, legislation was introduced in 2018 to increase the penalty from a third degree felony to a second degree felony for intentionally or knowingly causing death to a police dog.¹² Additionally, in South Carolina, legislation in 2018 named after two police dogs that were killed in the line of duty¹³ proposed to increase the penalty for harming a police animal to a maximum prison sentence of 10 years and a potential $10,000 fine.¹⁴ Current Michigan law provides that a person who intentionally kills or causes serious physical harm to a police dog, police horse, or search and rescue dog is guilty of a felony punishable by imprisonment of up to 5 years, a fine of up to $10,000, or both.¹⁵

Currently, Florida law provides that it is a third degree felony¹⁶ to intentionally and knowingly, without lawful cause or justification, cause great bodily harm, permanent disability, or death to, or use a deadly weapon upon a police dog, police horse, fire dog, or SAR dog.¹⁷ Those animals have specific definitions in law and are defined in the following manner:

- “Police dog” and “police horse” means any dog or horse, respectively, that is owned, or the service of which is employed, by a law enforcement agency for the principal purpose of aiding in the detection of criminal activity, enforcement of laws, or apprehension of offenders;
- “Fire dog” means any dog that is owned, or the service of which is employed, by a fire department, a special fire district, or the State Fire Marshal for the principal purpose of aiding in the detention of flammable materials or the investigation of fires; and ¹⁷ Section 843.19(2), F.S.

- “SAR dog” means any search and rescue dog that is owned, or the service of which is employed, by a fire department, a law enforcement agency, a special fire district, or the State Fire Marshal for the principal purpose of aiding in the detection of missing persons, including, but not limited to, persons who are lost, who are trapped under debris as the result of a natural, manmade, or technological disaster, or who are drowning victims.¹⁸

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

The bill increases the penalty from a third degree felony to a second degree felony¹⁹ for intentionally and knowingly, without lawful cause or justification, causing great bodily harm, permanent disability, or death to, or using a deadly weapon upon, a police, fire, or SAR canine, or a police horse.

The bill also makes these corresponding changes to the offense severity ranking chart.²⁰

Additionally, the bill replaces the word “dog” with the word “canine” in ss. 767.16 and 843.19, F.S.

The bill is effective October 1, 2019.
