Senator Book moved the following:

Senate Amendment (with directory and title amendments)

Between lines 27 and 28

insert:

(b) If an infant is born alive during or immediately after an attempted abortion, any health care practitioner present at the time shall humanely exercise the same degree of professional skill, care, and diligence to preserve the life and health of the infant as a reasonably diligent and conscientious health care practitioner would render to an infant born alive at the same gestational age in the course of natural birth. If the physician performing the procedure determines that, in his or her reasonable medical judgment, it is unlikely that the infant born alive will survive due to his or her medical condition, the physician, with the informed consent and signature of the pregnant mother, may issue a physician’s order not to resuscitate the infant.
