SUMMARY ANALYSIS

Article I, section 24(a) of the State Constitution establishes the state's government records access policy, guaranteeing each person a right to inspect or copy any public record of the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of government. However, the Legislature may provide a public records exemption by general law if the exemption passes by a two-thirds vote of each chamber, states with specificity the public necessity justifying the exemption ("public necessity statement"), and is no broader than necessary to meet its public purpose.

A trust is a relationship in which one party, the "settlor," gives another party, the "trustee," the right to hold title to the settlor's property or assets for the benefit of a third party, the "beneficiary." Under Florida law, families may choose to form a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company to provide the family services similar to those provided by a trustee or a financial institution; such companies are often formed to manage the wealth of families with a high net worth in lieu of relying on traditional individual or institutional trustee arrangements. Although trusts are not generally subject to judicial supervision, most family trust companies, licensed family trust companies, and foreign licensed family trust companies will need to access the court system at some point, as certain matters of trust administration cannot be accomplished without judicial intervention. However, information contained in the records related to trust proceedings involving these companies is not currently exempt from public disclosure. Such proceedings may expose private information about family wealth and other sensitive matters that may lead to exploitation of family members by financial predators, unwanted solicitations, and a heightened risk of kidnapping. This information may also reveal extensive private and highly personal information, including information about family disputes.

CS/HB 1363:

- Creates a public records exemption for certain information related to a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company in a trust proceeding in which such a company is a party.
- Requires a court to seal documents filed with the court in a trust proceeding in which a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company is a party, with exceptions.
- Provides a public necessity statement.

The bill does not appear to have a fiscal impact on state or local governments.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2022.

Article I, section 24(c) of the State Constitution, requires a two-thirds vote of the members present and voting for final passage of a newly created or expanded public record or public meeting exemption. The bill creates a public record exemption; thus it requires a two-thirds vote for final passage.

FULL ANALYSIS

I. SUBSTANTIVE ANALYSIS

A. EFFECT OF PROPOSED CHANGES:

Background

Public Records

Article I, section 24(a) of the State Constitution sets forth the state's public policy regarding access to government records. The section guarantees every person a right to inspect or copy any public record of the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of government. The Legislature, however, may provide by general law for exemption from public records requirements provided the exemption passes by two-thirds vote of each chamber, states with specificity the public necessity justifying the exemption, and is no broader than necessary to meet its public purpose.¹

The Florida Statutes also address the public policy regarding access to government records. Section 119.07(1), F.S., guarantees every person a right to inspect and copy any state, county, or municipal record, unless the record is exempt. Furthermore, the Open Government Sunset Review Act² provides that a public record exemption may be created or maintained only if it serves an identifiable public purpose and the "Legislature finds that the purpose is sufficiently compelling to override the strong public policy of open government and cannot be accomplished without the exemption."³ An identifiable public purpose is served if the exemption meets one of the following purposes:

- Allow the state or its political subdivisions to effectively and efficiently administer a governmental program, which administration would be significantly impaired without the exemption;
- Protect sensitive personal information that, if released, would be defamatory or would jeopardize an individual's safety; however, only the identity of an individual may be exempted under this provision; or
- Protect trade or business secrets.⁴

Pursuant to s. 119.15(3), F.S., a new public records exemption or substantial amendment of an existing public records exemption is repealed on October 2 of the fifth year following enactment, unless the Legislature reenacts the exemption. However, this provision does not apply to an exemption that:

- Is required by federal law; or
- Applies solely to the State Legislature or the State Court System.⁵

Court Proceedings and Records

Independent of constitutional and statutory provisions that generally require court files to be open to the public, the courts have found that "both civil and criminal court proceedings in Florida are public events" and that courts must "adhere to the well-established common law right of access to court proceedings and records."⁶ A court may close a court file or a portion thereof on equitable grounds, but its ability to do so is limited due to the Florida Supreme Court's ruling that closure of court proceedings or records should occur only when necessary to:

- Comply with established public policy set forth in the constitution, statutes, rules, or case law;
- Protect trade secrets;
- Protect a compelling governmental interest (such as national security or confidential informant identity);
- Obtain evidence to properly determine legal issues in a case;

- Avoid substantial injury to innocent third parties (such as to protect young witnesses from offensive testimony or children in a divorce); or
- Avoid substantial injury to a party by disclosure of matters protected by a common law or privacy right not generally inherent in the specific type of civil proceeding sought to be closed.⁷

Additionally, the legislature has exempted from the public record certain court records when disclosure of such records would implicate privacy interests, including:

- Records relating to dependency matters, termination of parental rights, and child abuse, neglect, and abandonment.⁸
- Adoption records.⁹
- Guardianship records.¹⁰
- Social security, bank account, charge, debit, and credit card numbers.¹¹
- Birth records and portions of death and fetal death records.¹²
- Estate inventories and accountings included in court records.¹³

Family Trust Companies

A trust is a relationship in which one party, the “settlor,” gives another party, the “trustee,” the right to hold title to the settlor’s property or assets for the benefit of a third party, the “beneficiary.”

Types of Family Trust Companies

A “family trust company” is a corporation or limited liability company (“LLC”) that:

- Is exclusively owned by one or more family members;¹⁴
- Is organized or qualified to do business in the state;
- Acts or proposes to act as a fiduciary to serve one or more family members;
- Does not serve as a fiduciary for a person, entity, trust, or estate that is not a family member, except that it may serve as a fiduciary for up to 35 individuals who are not family members if the individuals are current or former employees of the family trust company or one or more trusts, companies, or other entities that are family members.¹⁵

A “licensed family trust company” is a family trust company that operates in accordance with ch. 662, F.S., and has been issued a license by the Office of Financial Regulation (“OFR”) that has not been suspended or revoked.¹⁶ A “foreign licensed family trust company” is a family trust company that:

- Is licensed by a state other than Florida or the District of Columbia (“D.C.”);
- Has its principal place of business in a state other than Florida or D.C.;
- Is operated in accordance with family or private trust company laws of the state in which it is licensed or of D.C.;

¹⁴ “Family member” means a designated relative; a person within the fourth degree of lineal kinship to a designated relative of a family trust company, or a person within the sixth degree of lineal kinship to a designated relative of a licensed family trust company; a person within the seventh degree of collateral kinship to a designated relative of a family trust company, or a person within the ninth degree of collateral kinship to a designated relative of a licensed family trust company; the spouse or former spouse of an individual qualifying as a family member and an individual who is within the fifth degree of lineal kinship to such spouse or former spouse; a family affiliate; a trust established by a family member if the trust is funded exclusively by one or more family members; a trust established by an individual who is not a family member if all of the noncharitable qualified beneficiaries of the trust are family members; the probate estate of a family member; the probate estate of an individual who is not a family member if all of the noncharitable beneficiaries of the estate are family members; or a charitable foundation or other charitable entity in which a majority of the governing body is composed of family members. - Is not owned by, or a subsidiary of, a corporation, LLC, or other business entity that is organized or licensed by any foreign country as defined in s. 663.01(3), F.S.¹⁷

Formation and Oversight

A family may form a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company to provide the family services similar to those provided by a trustee or a financial institution; such companies are often formed to manage the wealth of families with a high net worth in lieu of relying on traditional individual or institutional trustee arrangements.¹⁸ Neither a family trust company nor a foreign licensed family trust company must be a licensed family trust company, but such companies must register with OFR before beginning operations in the state.¹⁹

Certain information disclosed to OFR in connection with its oversight of family trust companies, licensed family trust companies, and foreign licensed family trust companies is confidential and exempt²⁰ from the public record, including:

- Personal identifying information;
- The names of shareholders or members of the company; and
- Information received by OFR from persons from another state or nation or the federal government which is otherwise confidential and exempt from public disclosure under the laws of such state or nation or under federal law.²¹

Trust Proceedings

Although trusts are not generally subject to judicial supervision, most family trust companies, licensed family trust companies, and foreign licensed family trust companies will need to access the court system at some point, as certain matters of trust administration cannot be accomplished without judicial intervention.²² Additionally, a hearing conducted under the Administrative Procedure Act must be held if timely requested in proceedings for the issuance, denial, renewal, or amendment of a license or approval of a merger related to a family trust company.²³

However, information contained in the records related to trust proceedings involving family trust companies, licensed family trust companies, and foreign licensed family trust companies is not currently exempt from public disclosure. Such proceedings may expose private information about family wealth and other sensitive matters that may lead to exploitation of family members by financial predators, unwanted solicitations, and a heightened risk of kidnapping.²⁴ This information may also reveal extensive private and highly personal information, including information about family disputes, which appeals to the prurient interest but is of limited legitimate public interest.

¹⁸ See generally ch. 662, F.S.

¹⁹ Ss. 662.114 and 662.122, F.S.

²⁰ There is a difference between records the Legislature designates exempt from public record requirements and those the Legislature deems confidential and exempt. A record classified as exempt from public disclosure may be disclosed under certain circumstances. See WFTV, Inc. v. Sch. Bd. of Seminole, 874 So.2d 48, 53 (Fla. 5th DCA 2004), review denied 892 So.2d 1015 (Fla. 2004); City of Rivera Beach v. Barfield, 642 So.2d 1135 (Fla. 4th DCA 1994); Williams v. City of Minneola, 575 So.2d 683, 687 (Fla. 5th DCA 1991). If the Legislature designates a record as confidential and exempt from public disclosure, such record may not be released by the custodian of public records to anyone other than the persons or entities specifically designated in statute. See Op. Att’y Gen. Fla. 04-09 (2004).

²² These matters include final settlement of trust accountings, conclusive validation of trustee fees, approval of specific trustee actions, trust instrument construction, the determination of a trust’s validity, and a trust’s modification, reformation, or termination. S. 736.0201(3), F.S.

²⁴ Plante v. Gonzalez, 575 F.2d 1119 (5th Cir. 1978) (recognizing that financial privacy is important for reasons including the irritation of solicitations and the threat of kidnapping).

Effect of Proposed Changes

CS/HB 1363 provides that, in trust proceedings in which a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company is a party, the identities of those who establish, administer, or benefit from a trust and any information relating to the trust are confidential and exempt from the public record and must be protected in any court proceeding or filing related to the trust. The bill also directs the court to seal and not release to the public any document filed with the court in such a trust proceeding, including, but not limited to:

- The trust instrument;
- Any petitions, briefs, or inventories;
- Any statement or report filed by a fiduciary;
- Any court orders; and
- Any other document in the court case file.

However, the bill directs the court to make such documents available to:

- The settlor;
- A fiduciary of the trust;
- A beneficiary of the trust;
- An attorney for such persons; and
- Any other person if, upon the person's showing of a specific interest in the trust, a transaction relating to the trust, or an asset held or previously held by the trust, the court determines that there is a compelling need for releasing the requested information.

The bill provides a public necessity statement as required by article I, section 24(c) of the State Constitution. The public necessity statement provides that public disclosure of sensitive family and financial information in trust proceedings involving family trust companies, licensed family trust companies, or foreign licensed family trust companies can result in specific harm to beneficiaries and other interested parties, as such proceedings often involve large sums of money or vulnerable people who could be targeted for exploitation or abuse. In addition, public disclosure in such trust proceedings of information relating to clients, family members, members, or stockholders of such trust would vitiate other protections granted by law to such companies and their constituents.

The bill provides an effective date of July 1, 2022.

B. SECTION DIRECTORY:

Section 1: Creates s. 662.1465, F.S., relating to confidentiality of family trust company proceedings and other filings.

Section 2: Provides a public necessity statement as required by the State Constitution.

Section 3: Provides an effective date of July 1, 2022.

II. FISCAL ANALYSIS & ECONOMIC IMPACT STATEMENT

A. FISCAL IMPACT ON STATE GOVERNMENT:

1. Revenues:

None.

2. Expenditures:

None.

B. FISCAL IMPACT ON LOCAL GOVERNMENTS:

1. Revenues:

None.

2. Expenditures:

None.

C. DIRECT ECONOMIC IMPACT ON PRIVATE SECTOR:

The bill may protect from financial exploitation and other dangers the members of a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company by keeping certain personal information and information related to the trust out of the public record unless an exception applies.

D. FISCAL COMMENTS:

None.

III. COMMENTS

A. CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUES:

1. Applicability of Municipality/County Mandates Provision:

Not applicable. The bill does not appear to affect county or municipal governments.

2. Other:

Vote Requirement

Article I, section 24(c) of the State Constitution requires a two-thirds vote of the members present and voting for final passage of a newly created or expanded public records exemption. The bill creates a public record exemption; thus, it requires a two-thirds vote for final passage.

Public Necessity Statement

Article I, section 24(c) of the State Constitution requires a public necessity statement for a newly created or expanded public records exemption. The bill creates a public record exemption; thus, it includes a public necessity statement.

Breadth of Exemption

Article I, section 24(c) of the State Constitution requires a newly created or expanded public records exemption to be no broader than necessary to accomplish the stated purpose of the law. The bill creates a public record exemption for the identities of those involved in a trust and any information relating to the trust in a trust proceeding in which a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company is a party.

B. RULE-MAKING AUTHORITY:

Not applicable.

C. DRAFTING ISSUES OR OTHER COMMENTS:

The bill may inadvertently prohibit OFR from publishing the notice of application for a family trust company in the FAR, as the exemption applies to “trust proceedings in which a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company is a party” and to “any information related to the trust,” which information must be protected in any “filing related to the trust.” This may in turn cut off the right of a person to request a hearing on the license application.

IV. AMENDMENTS/COMMITTEE SUBSTITUTE CHANGES

On February 2, 2022, the Civil Justice and Property Rights Subcommittee adopted one amendment and reported the bill favorably as a committee substitute. The amendment:

- Clarified that the documents a court must seal under the bill, absent an exception, are those filed in a trust proceeding in which a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company is a party.
- Narrowed the public necessity statement to specifically address the protection of the beneficiaries of a trust in which a family trust company, licensed family trust company, or foreign licensed family trust company is a trustee.

This analysis is drafted to the committee substitute as passed by the Civil Justice and Property Rights Subcommittee.
